33 Arrested In Draft-Dodging Scheme

NEW YORK (AP) — FBI agents arrested almost 40 men in swift daybreak raids today in the New York metropolitan area and in Cleveland and charged them with participating in draft-dodging schemes.

More arrests were expected, federal officials said.

By midmorning, agents had arrested 33 men in New York and 5 in Cleveland.

An official said some of the men paid up to $5,000 for false statements about an individual's military status. The scheme had taken in up to $80,000 since 1963, officials said.

In Cleveland, officials said one man arrested was a National Guardman who handled paper work for phony enlistments in the 112th Engineers Battalion in suburban Garfield Heights. The FBI said the Cleveland case is unrelated to the New York arrests.

The FBI said among those arrested in New York were nine fathers and eight of their sons.

The men are charged with violating a 1948 Selective Service act — a charge carrying a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine upon conviction.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said warrants for the men were issued by the U.S. District Court in Brooklyn March 29. The roundup was carried out shortly after dawn today.

Hoover said two principals in the alleged scheme were arrested in February. They are Paul G. Miller, 28, of Flushing, N.Y., a department store credit authorizer, and Solomon Gotfriend, 56, a civil service worker and resident of Long Island.

The government charged they sold for up to $5,000 forms which falsely stated the young men were members of Air Force Reserve units. The two men allegedly mailed forms to this effect to Selective Service boards, which subsequently deferred the individuals from induction by switching them from 1A to 1D classification, a Reserve status.

5% Income Tax Boost Held Likely

May Be Combined With Increase In Corporation Levy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 5 per cent increase in personal income taxes coupled with a boost in corporation taxes is one possible tax combination the Johnson administration could seek to dampen the continually expanding economy.

President Johnson indicated Tuesday he might seek a tax increase as early as next month if prices continue to rise. Such an increase would be designed to take a temporary and relatively quick bite from purchasing power.

The most likely recommendation, if the administration rules that a tax increase is needed, is a combiantion of personal and corporate tax hikes rather than any selective increases.

Raising personal income taxes by 5 per cent would remove about $2.5 billion in purchasing power from the economy each year.

Coupling this with a two-point increase in corporation taxes — from 48 to 50 per cent — would raise about $4 billion in revenue each year. A one-point boost in corporate taxes increases revenues by about $700 million.

These percentages could be varied up and down depending on how much money the administration decided it wanted to remove from the economy — if it made that decision at all.

$5 Billion Hike To Combat Inflation

Political Uproar Follows Johnson Tax Boost Hint

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's broad indication that he may ask an early tax increase to combat threatened inflation touched off a political uproar in Congress today.

Johnson told a group of young interns finishing a year's government service Tuesday that if prices continue to rise he faces three choices: government controls, a $5-billion-to $10-billion cut in federal spending or a tax hike of roughly $5 billion.

He added no one likes controls. He said he doesn't believe spending can be reduced without damaging "necessary or popular programs that Congress wouldn't go along with." He said agencies will report to the Budget Bureau next month on possible economies.

If such reductions are not enough and "if prices are still going up, we will have to have a tax bill," he said. A decision may be reached next month, he told the interns.

This brought an assertion from Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen that Johnson is in for "a tug-of-war, a test of strength" with Republicans and conservative Democrats who will fight to cut spending rather than increase taxes.

"This is going to stimulate an economy hunt such as we haven't seen in years," Dirksen said in an interview. "Every buck we can save will mean a buck less in taxes and believe me we're going to hunt for those savings."

Rep. John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, top Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said he is not going to support any tax increase "as long as the administration continues to press for expenditures that certainly can be deferred."

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, assistant House Democratic leader, said he thinks because of the pressure of Viet Nam war expenditures on the economy, taxes may have to go up.

"We might have to increase taxes," he said. "Now the President is saying it and I agree with what he's saying. I hope we don't have to do it."

In the same frame of mind, Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said he had hoped a tax increase could be deferred.

In an obvious reference to possible budget cuts, he added: "Let's be sure and see which way the wind is blowing."

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., a Senate Finance Committee member, also was in a wait-and-see mood.

"I want to see specifically what the President recommends and study the alternatives," Ribicoff said.

Johnson apparently based his indication of increased taxes — made at an impromptu news conference at a reception in the White House state dining room — on the belief of his economic advisers that measures already taken to curb inflationary trends may not prove strong enough.

Looking at Tuesday's Labor Department report that sharply higher food prices had boosted living costs half of 1 per cent last month, Dirksen made no secret of the fact that Republicans believe the President is in an inflationary vise that will squeeze a substantial number of congressional seats out of the hands of Democrats in the fall election.

Destroy 150 Structures And Kill 35

4 Of Craft Lost, 3 By Enemy Fire In Bombardment

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. plane destroyed at least 150 Communist buildings, set off 14 big explosions and killed 35 or more Viet Cong in 24 hours of intensive bombardment in South Viet Nam, a U.S. spokesman announced today.

Four planes were lost, three to enemy fire.

Although poor weather continued to hamper air activity against North Viet Nam, Navy carrier planes claimed five junks and three sampans destroyed on strafing missions against waterways in the North.

A big Air Force C130 transport also peppered the North — with 10 million propaganda leaflets dropped just over the 17th Parallel frontier. They warned North Vietnamese troops reported massed there that they face destruction if they cross the border.

There have been reports of heavy troop concentrations in that part of the North Vietnamese panhandle, which has been a target for heavy American air attacks since the resumption of the raids two months ago.

Terrorists set off a bomb at a U.S. military billet in Saigon this morning, but inflicted little more than scratches on four or five Americans. The blast, which tore a 20-foot section out of the concrete and brick wall surrounding the downtown villa, came on the anniversary of the explosion at the U.S. Embassy a year ago. Two Americans and 20 Vietnamese were killed in the embassy bombing and 175 persons were wounded.

Different trouble faced a small U.S. Marine billet in Da Nang, scene of recent political unrest following the dismissal of the area's Vietnamese army commander.

Two thousand Vietnamese jeered and shouted anti-American slogans at the 35 or so Marines after a collision between a Marine truck and a civilian bus. A demonstrator charged the Marines beat him with their rifles in an argument following the crash, but some witnesses denied this.

Friends Open Reward Drive

Boy's Kidnaper Remains Silent

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Friend have started a drive to raise a reward for the return of a teenager whose kidnaper has remained ominously silent.

Police chased down dozens of leads, poured over boxes of photographs and even made two fruitless flying raids in their search for 18-year-old Daniel Goldman.

But apparently they were no closer to a solution than they were Monday morning when a heavy-set middle-aged man in a baseball cap forced him to leave his home at gunpoint.

Friends in the tiny, exclusive community of Surfside on Miami Beach formed a committee to raise $50,000 for information leading to Daniel's safe return. Police approved the idea. They said a reward often produces vital information in major cases.

A prayer service on behalf of the quiet, studious high school senior was set at Temple Raphael, which was built by Daniel's father, Aaron, a wealthy contractor who is also a principal in at least six firms.

One police officer suggested that business dealings might be a factor in the kidnaping. Sgt. Warren Dalrymple said the kidnaper told the father, "You don't remember me, but you cheated me out of some money."

At one point Tuesday, police carried six boxes of what appeared to be business records into the Goldmans' luxurious home which is built around an enclosed swimming pool just off Biscayne Bay.

But police, who were talking very little about the case in hopes of protecting Daniel's life from what they described as an extremely dangerous kidnaper, indicated that this line of investigation had not been productive.

"We've got a lot of people working," said Sgt. Larry Vardell, "but we don't have anything more than we did yesterday."

Dozens of officers and FBI agents shuttled back and forth from the house. Twice, flying squads raced to apartments on anonymous tips. One place turned out to be empty. The owner of the other said a crank had been giving his address to police.

Ten policemen spent the night in the Goldman home — twice the number there the first night.

Two detectives talked to Phil Shwitzer, the youth who heard Daniel's calls for help as he was being forced into his car before dawn Monday.

Phil was also the first to reach Daniel's parents who had been tied by sashcord after the kidnaper asked them for $20,000 and they told him they didn't have that much in the house.

The burly gunman then put a $25,000 ransom on their son's head and said it would double to $50,000 if he was not paid by 6 a.m. Tuesday.

Police said the kidnaper did not contact the Goldmans all day Monday and Tuesday so the money had not been paid.

House Passes Rent Subsidy, Teacher Bill

$2.56 Billion Fund First Major 1966 Victory For LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has won his first major congressional victory of 1966 with House approval of funds for his rent subsidy and Teacher Corps programs. But it took some help from Republicans.

A $2.56-billion catch-all appropriation bill passed late Tuesday by the House included money to start the two new "Great Society" projects.

The 269-122 roll-call vote that sent the bill to the Senate after six hours of partisan debate did not reflect the closeness of the battles over the two main issues involved.

Both the rent subsidy program for low-income tenants and the Teachers Corps to help educate children of poor families were approved last year by Congress, but the money to get them started was not provided in the final appropriation bill of 1965.

Republicans who argued that now is not the time to spend federal funds on new domestic pro-

Hearing Due On Crucible's Case April 18

CHICAGO (AP)—A hearing has been set for April 18 on stockholders' charges that Crucible Steel Co. of America, in conjunction with Wheeling Steel Corp. and Hunt Foods and Industries, acted to defraud Crucible stockholders through malfeasance and misfeasance.

The $200 million damage suit was filed by Morris Rubin and 10 other shareholders.

Rubin, a Chicago industrialist, and the other dissident shareholders have also filed formal notice of intent to seek proxies for election of its own nominees for 11 seats on the Crucible Board of Directors.

In the damage suit, the plaintiffs asked $100 million in compensatory damages and $100 million in punitive damages be awarded to Crucible because of alleged steps taken by the Crucible board toward a merger of Crucible and Wheeling.

The suit followed the election of Norton Simon, chairman of Wheeling Steel, to the Crucible board and his appointment as chairman of Crucible's finance committee. Simon also heads the finance committee of Hunt Foods.

Defense attorneys replying to the suit Tuesday denied the allegations.

The suit asked that the court void proxies held by Crucible's management and bar future solicitation of proxies. In addition, it calls for postponement of Crucible's annual stockholder's meeting April 27 and to order the resignation of four directors, including Simon.

House Okay Held Certain On 'DST' Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House votes today on a bill expected to put most of the country on Daylight Saving Time for six months of each year starting in 1967. Approval is considered certain.

The Senate passed the compromise measure Tuesday shortly after Senate-House conferees reached agreement on it. The final measure is exactly the version originally passed by the House.

The bill, designed to bring uniformity into a multiplicity of summer fast-time systems over the nation, would:

—Require any area wishing to observe DST this year to put it into effect from the last Sunday in April to the last Sunday in October.

—Put the entire nation next year and after on DST for this six-month period but permit a state to be kept on standard time of its legislature so votes. In such case, the whole state would remain on standard time.

Closed Session At Moscow

Red Party Congress Told No Return To Stalinism

MOSCOW (AP) — The head of the Communist party organization told the Soviet Communist party congress today that there will be no return to Stalinism.

Nikolai G. Yegorychev said it has become fashionable lately to look for "elements of Stalinism" in Soviet political life, the Soviet news agency Tass reported from the second closed session of the 23rd party congress.

Tass said Yegorychev "emphatically rejected these attempts and declared that there would be no return to the past and that everything that had hampered progress had been brushed aside forever."

At the same time Yegorychev began a process of re-examing Soviet history in the period that Joseph Stalin ruled the Soviet Union.

Communist sources have indicated that this re-examination will result in the softening of some criticism of Stalin while trying to divorce the Communist party as a whole from Stalin's crimes.

Yegorychev said attempts to

City Man Given Air Medal For Heroism In Viet Nam

A 20-year-old city man has been cited for heroism during action with the Army in Viet Nam.

He is Spcl. 4C Timothy Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Campbell of the Westfield Rd., who has been awarded the Air Medal for heroism.

The medal contains a fourth oak leaf cluster with a "V" device, according to word received by the family this week from the Army.

Campbell was cited for heroism while engaged in an aerial flight in connection with military operations against hostile forces. He distinguished himself by "exceptionally valorous actions," according to the notification sent his parents.

A member of Company A of the 502d Aviation Battalion, Campbell is a crew chief aboard a helicopter. His medal came as a result of a search and destroy operation near An Khe on Sept. 18, 1965.

In relating the incident, the citation says the first heliborne assault met with a moderate amount of automatic and small arms fire. During the second assault, Campbell leaned outside the craft and suppressed the hostile zone with gun fire.

In the third lift, two helicopters in the area were downed and burning. Although his ship was receiving numerous hits and his pilot was severely wounded in the leg, Campbell continued to provide suppressing fire until the helicopter was out of range.

Campbell then provided first aid to the pilot. The citation stated: "Through his courage, determination, and calm presence of mind throughout the operation, he contributed immeasurably to the defeat of two hard core Viet Cong battalions and saved the pilot's life."

Has Seen 3 Major Battles.

Campbell still is in Viet Nam and has been in three major battles since September. He has been serving in Viet Nam since April of 1965.

TV Antenna Bumps Wire, Man, 26, Dies

SALEM — A 26-year-old off-duty Salem police officer was electrocuted early Tuesday evening near Damascas when a television antenna pole he was helping erect struck some high voltage lines.

John Rousher Jr. of 484 E. 4th St., an officer since 1964, was pronounced dead at Salem Central Clinic.

He and some others were helping to erect the color television antenna at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Berger of Route 534 just north of Damascus at 6:45 p. m.

When the metal pole struck against a power line leading from the highway to a nearby barn, the electrical shock hurled Rousher 15 feet to the Berger home.

Berger, who was holding the pole with the patrolman, was wearing rubber boots and was unhurt, according to Smith Bollia.

Earl Blake, 16, and Marilyn Kriler, both students at West Branch School, also were assisting and suffered electrical burns of the feet. They were treated at the hospital.

Dr. William Kolozsi, county coroner, ruled the death accidental.

The officer is survived by his widow, Mrs. Patricia Mackrynach Rousher; two sons, John Rousher and Patrick Rousher; a daughter, Patricia Rousher, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rousher of Salem.

Tax

working on contingency plans for a tax increase — or a reduction if it should ever be needed to stimulate the economy — have reached no firm decisions on a package of taxes the administration could use to cool the economy.

Major discussions, however, have centered around individual and corporate rates.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler only last week reiterated his opposition to suspending the 7 per cent investment credit and the Treasury has hardly considered an excess profits tax on corporations because it considers it too difficult to administer.

There have been few serious suggestions for raising excise taxes again.

Neutrality is the key word in the Treasury's thinking on contingency tax planning.

This means that no change in tax structure — favoring one income group over another — should be made for an antiinflation tax boost. Stanley S. Surrey, assistant secretary of the Treasury for tax matters, has said changes in structure require much public and congressional debate and there won't be time for this if a tax increase is needed to dampen inflationary trends.

The new tax measure signed by President Johnson earlier this month is designed to raise about $6 billion over the next 15 months for the Viet Nam war.

It repealed excise tax cuts which went into effect last Jan. 1 but did not raise taxes on individuals and corporations. It merely speeded up collection of the tax and put taxpayers on a tighter pay-as-you-go basis.

The individual withholding rate at present is 14 per cent. But it will be placed on a graduated scale from 14 to 40 per cent May 1. The first tax bite for corporations under the new law will be felt in their April 15 payment.

"Much could have been done better," he said. "The 50 years since the Bolshevik Revolution have taught us much. But what has been done is admirable and fills us with pride."

Yegorychev proposed that the party's top man be called general secretary — the title used by Stalin.

There was no immediate indication whether the proposal, which was certain to be adopted, would mean any increase in power for the current top man, Leonid I. Brezhnev. His title now is first secretary of the party's Central Committee.

Curb The Highway Scofflaws!

Nothing but good can come of the Ohio Legislative Service Commission's study of highway safety, with a view to setting up guidelines for the next session of the General Assembly.

The goal of every study of highway safety should be a wider margin of security for safe drivers. The surest way to reach it is to stiffen restrictions against chronically unsafe drivers.

A small percentage of these cause a disproportionately large number of accidents. Until they have been curbed, nothing much can be accomplished through highway design, auto inspection and arbitrary age limits for licensees.

Who are these chronic accident causers? There's no secret about them.

They're drunks who show up in traffic court time after time—most of them driving on suspended licenses and scoffing at the law.

They're shwoffs who feel big when they get away with stunts on the highways that drivers with good sense wouldn't risk in a Sebring road race.

They're psychopaths who take out their spite against the world with a sure foot on the accelerator and an insure hand on the wheel.

They're all the people insurance companies won't sell insurance to because they're bad risks. The insurance companies know who they are.

Yet, in beautiful Ohio these menaces drive the highways as if they owned them—irresponsible, uninsured, uninsurable, and frequently unlicensed.

What can be done about them?

They can be deprived of the wheel that turn them into killers and maimers. Their auto license plates can be impounded every time their driver licenses are suspended. Perhaps even their cars could be taken away from them.

They can be jailed, fined and harassed into taking up walking.

There is only one sure way to widen the margin of security for drivers who dread the possibility of being maimed or killed by these scofflaw Cossacks of the Auto Age—keep them off the roads.

There always will be auto accidents. But there do not always have to be auto accidents caused again and again by chronic menaces. Get them off the highways by getting rid of their wheels. Then go to work on drivers who try to be safe. The battle will be half won.

Shadow Of A Coming Event

Some time after the voluntary medical insurance part of the medicare program has gone into effect, there will be a series of awkward incidents.

These will happen because aged persons entitled to the basic hospital benefits in the medicare program will reveal they never heard of the medical insurance program. These will be men and women who did not beat the March 31, 1966, deadline, or any future deadline that may be provided for tardy signers.

They will explain they never heard of the program because they cannot read and write and no one ever told them what they had no other way of learning.

They will explain they do not speak or read English and could not comprehend the efforts of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to reach them in the communications media.

And some will explain they heard about medical benefits that would be available if they paid $36 a year but could not consider it because the cost was prohibitive for people living on less than $100 a year, to say nothing of what would happen if they had to pay the first $50 of medical costs and 20 per cent of anything above the first $50. In these circumstances, they would explain, they would be better off to have nothing at all and be dependent on charity.

In short, it is going to be learned some time in the not-too-distant future that one of the handicaps of the medicare program at its inception was the inability of some of its intended beneficiaries to take advantage of it.

China's Closed Door Policy

Now for the second time, U.S. diplomatic hopefulness is being rebuffed by Asiatic Communists. Peking is no more interested in opening its closed doors to U.S. overtures for diplomatic relations than Hanoi was in listening to overtures fore peace negotiations last winter.

This is a harsh comedown for people inside and outside the government who believed Chinese Communists would do anything to win favor in Washington. They never dreamed of the possibility the Chinese would set conditions for diplomatic relations as harsh as Hanoi's requirement that U.S. troops be pulled out of Viet Nam before peace negotiations could be taken seriously.

Both attitudes stem from the same source—the closely shared conviction that the United States is on a dead-end street in Asia. Peking and Hanoi have hintd at various times that they think they have time on their side; that the U.S. government and the American people will get tired of backing up a commitment that will produce no definitive reults.

The clock in Asia does not run at breakneck speed the way the clock runs in the United States. Asiatics are accustomed to waiting indefinitely. Americans are not. Asiatics are accustomed, moreover, to bargaining.

How much would it be worth to the United States to save Formosa for the Nationalist Chinese, South Korea for a U.S. military enclave and South Viet Nam for still another? The price will be high if the bargain ever is struck.

Letter From Max

Dear Truman Twill:

A most remarkable robin has favored us with its presence.

It is a robin of over-average intelligence. It has been coming to our place for three years now, and you would have been told of it long ago except for fear you might give us the bird.

We call it Robin, with a capital "R" because it has become such a pet.

How a mere bird could master what this one has mastered and reached the heights of understanding of this one is beyond belief.

It all started when a member of the family was out in the yard spading, and the robin followed along like a chicken looking for worms. Chickens are no great shakes for brains, but it was deemed unusual for a robin to become that domesticated.

That was only the beginning.

Whenever anyone went out of the house, our Robin would hop and flit along as though its life depended on it. The bird was so serious its affection could not be resented.

Pests are pests, but a loving Robin is a joy forever. True friends are where you find them. Our Robin is a true friend.

When anything outdoors requires the attention of one of the inmates of the house, Robin pecks at a window to attract attention. He can alway to find the room in which a person is, at any given time.

He has launched a one-bird crusade against starlings, grackles and sparrows on the premises, as befits a bird-watcher's friend. A robin is considered a gentle songbird, but beware when it gets its feathers up on the back of its neck.

Robin's greatest accomplishment is the way he carries the mail. Our mailbox is out by the road about 60 feet from the front door. We live in the sticks.

Robin watches for the mailman and brings letters and cards in his beak to a waiting hand at the door. Similarly, he will take lightweight mail from the door to put in the box, for mailing.

Magazine are too heavy for him but he has been observed trying to drag them on the ground up to the door. This is hard on the magazines and on the bird, too, and we are trying to discourage him from such futile displays of superbird strength.

It is difficult to reward a Robin for such service and loyalty. We tried giving him such delicacies as slivers of steak and mashed potatoes, but he prefers worms and caterpillars. Ugh. How such a smart bird could have such tastes is beyond us.

He is so much better at finding worms and caterpillars than we are that we have abandoned any attempt to reward him with them.

He seems perfectly willing to continue his altruistic efforts in our behalf without hope of reward, beyond a pat and a kind word now and then.

Language has been a barrier in communication between us, but a variety of chirps and whistles and gestures enabled both sides to achieve a primitive rapport.

Sometime you'll have to tell us about some queer birds you have known.

Faithfully yours
MAX

A mysterious but magic mineral—potash — helps keep the world alive.

Without this vital fertilizer, plants would wither, and all life on earth would soon die.

Scientists consider potash the "meat and potatoes" food that makes plants grow strong and healthy, but no one knows exactly how it works. The substance never has been detected in the actual structure of plants. It is readily absorbed, however, and contained largely in soluble form in the cell sap.

Potash, a term applied to potassium compounds, is one of three basic fertilizer ingredients along with phosphate and nitrogen.

Even man's body needs potassium obtained from food plants for proper fluid balance, muscle tone, sound heartbeat and nerve response.

Potash, as the major source of potassium, also works its magic in industry. It is an important ingredient in many products ranging from batteries, soap, television tubes, vitamin pills, matches, explosives, glass, and china to astronauts' breathing gear.

Theft Of Viet Aid Unchecked

By Victor Riesel

Four ace longshoremen who can unsnarl and outsnarl anything and anybody when need be, have been in Saigon for three months trying to unchoke that port of entry for soldiers, guns and food.

Victor Riesel

Now they are looking homeward. They want out, though they pledged themselves to stay for at least six months.

It's not the heat. It's the heat they just could not generate to move the Vietnamese portside bureaucracy, to melt the glut, to unravel the red tape, to wipe out tens of millions of dollars' worth of black market pilferage.

They are saying to their Longshoremen's Union, which dispatched them there: "One does not have to be a hawk or a dove to loathe vultures."

Word of their sentiment, and reports from National Maritime Union (NMU) Vice President Mel Baristic that some 40 per cent of American AID cargo is speeding into the Viet Nam black market, has angered some probe-minded congressmen.

IT SHOULD. If the labor leaders' estimates are correct — and they know a dock problem when they smell one from near or far—at least $120 million of some $300 million worth of aid is being stolen.

One investigator, whose men have interviewed the New York Longshoremen and Maritime Union leaders, was aghast over the discovery that the General Accounting Office (GAO) of our government has not had a "physical presence" in Viet Nam in almost three years!

Yet almost one billion dollars' worth of civilian aid has been shipped over.

The congressional probers are led by Rep. John Moss, who has had long conferences with the GAO directors. It's their job to make certain that every federal dollar spent gets audited.

Actually, the billion dollars which have gone to Viet Nam have gotten only a light once-over. No "Inspector General" of AID, which authorizes the shipments, has been in Viet Nam "in 15 months," Congressman Moss told this columnist.

"There literally has been no physical presence of GAO in Viet Nam for almost three years," Mr. Moss said. "There has been no office. A team has just gone over in the last few weeks."

MOSS DISCLOSED that the GAO and the AID people told him that they have had difficulty in finding personnel sufficiently trained to audit the vast quantities of civilian goods in that war-ripped country. Moss' retort was that there were undoubtedly hundreds of soldiers who could handle such books.

There will be a permanent General Accounting Office headquarters in Saigon from now on, Mr. Moss was assured. He and some of his colleagues want to see for themselves what's happening to the huge tonnage of costly civilian goods.

The special congressional squad will fly to Viet Nam shortly to ask why the U.S. is fighting on two fronts—the military and the black market.

Who sells us short? Who are the black marketeers? Why is there no commodity control system?

Why have the Vietnamese port authorities procratinated over the International Longshoremen's Association's specialists' proposals for the central registration and identification of Vietnamese dockwallopers? Are Vietnamese lower echelon officials getting paid off?

THERE CERTAINLY is a congressional storm brewing.

Congressman Paul Fino writes, "You are correct in saying that our Vietnamese allies are ridden with graft and corruption. Black market dollars are bankrolling the Viet Cong."

Senators have heard that, despite reports of speedier unloading in Saigon and other Viet Nam ports, there still are scores of ships so backlogged through inefficient and sometimes deliberately stalled unloading by local workers that the U.S. is losing $1 million daily in stalled vessels.

There will be louder protests from inside labor, too. NMU Leader Joe Curran, his executive assistant William Perry and Vice President Mel Barisic are flying over to see what can be done for their hundreds of seamen immobilized aboard the idle ships awaiting a turn at a harbor berth.

When all the grim report are in, the noise will be sufficiently loud to drown out the roar of guns over there. Perhaps then some of those in Saigon will realize that some of us here know there is a war on.

19 Points

By David Lawrence

Powell States His Position

Racial consciousness has been condemned in recent years as not in keeping with "the spirit of the times," but, strangely enough, the concept now has been extolled by a Negro leader—Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-NY, who is chairman of the all-important House Committee on Education and Labor. Mr. Powell has just issued to a Negro gathering what he calls a Black Position Paper, with 19 points which he says represent a summation of "my life's philosophy." Here are the points:

David Lawrence

"1. We must give our children a sense of pride in being black. The glory of our past and the dignity of our present must lead the way to the power of our future.

"2. We must insist that black organizations be led by black leadership. Italians lead Italian organizations. Irish lead Irish organizations. This kind of honest pluralism is a happy fact of American life.

"3. The black masses must accept the responsibility of financing their own organizations.

"4. The black masses must demand and refuse to accept nothing less than that proportionate share of political jobs and appointments which are equal to their proportion of the population and voting electorate.

"5. Black people must support and push black candidates for political office first—occasionally taking the risk of even electing an 'Uncle Tom.' But after you elect him, unfrock him and replace him.

"6. Black people must seek audacious power. . . .

"7. Black leadership in the North and South must differentiate between and work within the two-pronged thrust of the black revolution: Economic self-sufficiency and political power. . . . As chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor, I control all labor and education legislation. . . . This is legislative power. This is political power. Above all, this is audacious power.

"8. Black masses must produce and contribute to the economy of the country in the proportionate strength of their population. . . .

"9. Black communities in this country—whether it's New York's Harlem, Chicago's South and West Sides, or Philadelphia's North Side—must neither tolerate nor accept outside leadership—black or white. . . .

"10. The black masses should only follow those leaders who can sit at the bargaining table with the white power structure as equals and negotiate for a share of the loaf of bread, not beg for some of its crumbs.

"11. What is left of this black leadership . . . must come back to the Negroes who made them in the first place or be purged by the black masses. . . .

"12. Demonstrations and all continuing protest activity must be non-violent . . .

"13. No black person over 21 must be permitted to participate in a demonstration, walk a picket line or be part of any civil rights or community activity unless he or she is a registered voter.

"14. Black people must continue to defy the laws of man when such laws conflict with the law of God. . . .

"15. Black people must discover a new and creative total involvement with ourselves. We must turn our energies inwardly toward our homes, our churches, our families, our children, our colleges, our neighborhoods, our businesses and our communities. . . . This is no time for cotillions and sips and to run around sipping martinis in the homes of suburban white families when black families are starving in the inner city. . . .

"16. The war on poverty must become that more productive crusade for jobs. . . .

"17. The battle against segregation in America's public school systems must become a national effort, instead of the present regional skirmish that now exists. Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act outlaws de jure racial segregation. It has no meaning or application to the hard-core pockets of de facto racial segregation in Northern schools which is just as malicious, just as destructive of the human spirit.

"18. We must put pressures on our predominately black colleges to shift their emphasis from teacher education to nuclear physics and aerodynamics. . . .

"19. Every black man who considers himself an American must become a registered voter."

Mr. Powell further emphasizes racial consciousness when he says:

"Let us take pride in our black skins in this white man's civilization."

Now, it may well be wondered how long any member of Congress, particularly the chairman of a committee, would survive public criticism if he issued the above 19 points, but substituted the word "white" for "black." He would be castigated from coast to coast as a "Racist."

But Chairman Powell does have a point when he stresses pride of color. He is not the first to do so. This correspondent recalls a speech made by the late W. E. B. Dubois in 1918 to newspapermen traveling on a ship to the Paris Peace Conference. The Negro writer decried any feeling of inferiority and stressed in eloquent words the importance of pride of color. He said the real trouble with the white man is that, unfortunately, he is "palefaced" and doesn't have any color.

Plans Pushed For Low-Cost Housing Units

The first step toward obtaining low - cost housing for East Liverpool was taken during a meeting of the Columbiana Metropolitan Housing Authority, City Council and Mayor George Willshaw Tuesday night in the mayor's office.

As a result of the session, Council authorized two enabling resolutions be presented at its next meeting Monday so the program can get underway as quickly as possible.

Mayor Willshaw said today that if everything goes as planned, definite action on the proposal will come within the next nine months.

The city and the authority are going ahead with the original proposal of two 130-unit sections for the community.

This will make a total of 260 housing units. The type has not been determined, as the type will depend on the property utilized.

The units may either be the high - rise type, if the property available is small, or all one-story units if a larger section can be obtained.

The city will be in the process of negotiating for the property within nine months if all goes well, the mayor commented.

Merl Hall, director of the authority, was present along with the director of the Steubenville authority.

Councilmen Floyd Murray and Harold Malone were absent.

Talent Show Set Thursday By 4-H Units In Hancock

Following the talent acts a party will be held, with the theme "Wigwam Party." All youngsters and adult leaders will be dressed in Indian attire and seated according to "tribes" around the council circle.

Ralph Cox of Pughtown will portray the big chief. Tribal chiefs will be Mrs. James Arehart, Big Feet; Jerry Little, Cherokee; Francis Kokachak, Mingo; Miss Sue Isner, Seneca, and Fred Miller, Delaware.

Haiwatha and Minnie Ha-Ha will be selected. General chairmen are Miss Barbara Anderson and Mrs. Kenneth Renfro of Newell, and Mrs. James V. Rhoades and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ryan of Weirton.

Members of 4-H groups, families and guests are invited. Refreshments will be served.

On World Affairs Institute

3 Students Speak To Rotary Club

Three area high school students who attended the World Affairs Institute March 18-19 in Cincinnati presented an account of their experiences and impressions at the luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday at the Travelers Hotel.

The three students, all juniors, explained how debates and talks were held on the institute topic, "India and Pakistan and the Long Range U.S. Interest," among the boys taking part and foreign ministers representing India and Pakistan, as well.

Fiery discussions resulted on several occasions between the representatives of the two countries according to Gooding, who is active in sports and Key Club activities.

Green, class president and active in numerous school activities, told of the many foreign exchange students who attended the sessions, with many countries around the world and nearly every continent represented.

Parkins, member of school honorary clubs and active in school plays, spoke of the bumpy plane ride to Cincinnati from Pittsburgh, and of a guided tour of the University of Cincinnati campus.

An estimated 500 attended the institute, with Cincinnati high school and university teachers and Rotary Club members serving as moderators.

The causes of the Indian-Pakistan fighting were traced and blamed principally on differences in religion, language and customs, it was explained.

The war was studied from the standpoint of a religious war by Parkins' group and Gooding's group mentioned the Tashkent Treaty as one basis for solving the differences.

Green's study group emphasized the importance of education in eradicating the growing problems of famine and population control. The importance of sending technicians to solve farm problems was stressed.

Ralph Finley was program chairman. E. R. Chandler, president, announced that the Board of Directors will meet at noon Thursday at the hotel.

Ronald D. Deering of Calcutta and Marlene Hoppel of R. D. 3 each were fined $15 and costs for speeding. They were cited on Route 30 by the patrol March 27. Both pleaded "no contest."

Wayne Goodballet of 413 Maplewood Ave. was fined $10 and costs for driving left of center. He pleaded "no contest." He was cited March 24 on County Rd. 435 by the patrol.

Robert Stull Jr. of 7th Ave., LaCroft, reported to the court this morning that he had disposed of an old car as ordered. Stull had been charged with driving an unsafe motor vehicle. Judge Chertoff ordered him to dispose of the vehicle at an earlier hearing. The charge was dismissed this morning at the defendant's costs.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — Please tell me how I can resize a rug that has become limp and lifeless?

A. — The resizing of a small rug does not present too much difficulty. Dissolve four ounces of flake glue completely in two quarts of boiling water. Then lay the rug, which has been cleaned thoroughly, face down on the floor and tack it at intervals to hold it straight. Brush your glue solution lightly and sparingly over the back of the rug, being careful not to let it soak through. Let the rug dry in this position for at least 24 hours before relaying it.

Q. — How can I manufacture a nice, glossy starch?

A. — Try adding a few drops of glycerin to your starch solution, and see if this doesn't produce a fine gloss in your linens.

Q. — How can I remove old varnish from furniture before revarnishing?

A. — By using three tablespoons of washing soda to one quart of water, and rubbing this over the furniture with a rough cloth.

Clay Retains Title With Easy Victory Over Chuvalo

The Review Sports

Champion Fails To Floor Loser

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO (AP) — It was like a fight between a matador and a bull, only the bull didn't have any horns. That was heavyweight champion Cassius Clay's lop-sided victory in 15 rounds over game, iron-jawed George Chuvalo of Canada Tuesday night.

The 14,500 partisan fans — 13,900 paid — at Maple Leaf Gardens gave the plucky Canadian champion a roaring ovation for maintaining his record of never having been knocked off his feet although he must have taken at least 1,000 punches on the head from the unbeaten American.

Now the 24-year-old champion hopes to get into the ring within two months, either in Toronto or London, against Henry Cooper, the 31-year-old British ruler from London.

Old 'Enry isn't in gutty George's class when it comes to soaking up punishment but he can hit pretty good. He floored Clay with a left hook before being stopped in the fifth round at London on June 18, 1963. Clay has been dropped only twice in his 5½-year career.

The big drawback with Cooper is that he has a push-button on his chin. He has a 31-11-1 won-lost-draw record, including 21 knockouts. But he has been stopped six times — by Zora Folley, former world champion Ingemar Johansson, Clay, and some characters named Uber Bacilieri, Peter Bates and Joe Bygraves.

"We haven't got anything set yet," said Clay, whose face was virtually unmarked. "But Cooper might be a good one. He knocked me down once."

Arthur Grafton, the attorney for Clay's Louisville sponsoring group said they were considering Cooper and anyone who might be available, including Ernie Terrell. Terrell, the World Boxing Association champion from Chicago, withdrew from his title showdown here with Clay, recognized as champion everywhere but in WBA territory, when his guarantee was slashed.

"Terrell can show up or shut up," said Grafton.

It was Grafton and Edward Jacko Jr., Clay's personal attorney, who said Tuesday that the champion figured to have from 30 to 60 days before his appeal from a 1-A draft classification normally would be heard by the state board in Kentucky. Earlier it was reported the fighter's case would be heard within a few days.

The middle knuckle of Clay's right hand was swollen from the steady stream of punches he fired at Chuvalo's battered but unbowed head. Chuvalo bore nicks over and under both eyes, on his forehead and had a huge lump under his right eye about the size of a lemon.

The official had the following winning scores for Clay on the five-point must system: Referee Jackie Silvers 73-65, judge Tony Canzano 74-63, and judge Jackie Johnston 74-62. The Associated Press had it 73-62 for Clay and 13-2 in rounds, giving Chuvalo only the second and fourth. By rounds, Silvers had it 9-2, with four even, Canzano had it 12-1 with two even and Johnston had it 13-1 with one even.

After the fourth round it was all Clay with his popping lefts and left-right combinations. Chuvalo battered Clay's ribs and back and admittedly strayed low with some of his blows. Although he constantly stalked the dancing, sidestepping, circling champion the challenger couldn't slow him up. Chuvalo's punches had the effect of a wet noodle.

In the eighth round, by actual count, Clay popped his bull-necked, husky for 148 times with his left hand. In the 11th, when he apparently made his final all-out effort to make good on his ambition to floor Chuvalo, he scored with more than 200 blows.

Chuvalo absorbed them all and kept coming. It looked like he was being paid piece work for the number of shots he could take.

The Gardens said the gross gate was $165,000 and the net $150,000. The ancillary rights, including closed-circuit television, radio broadcasts and television tape shows may bring another $200,000 into the promotion.

Theater TV Of Fight Proves Financial Dud

Theater-television of Tuesday night's Cassius Clay-George Chuvalo heavyweight title fight proved a resounding financial dud, as expected.

Less than 40 outlets in the United States and Canada carried the closed-circuit telecast of the Toronto bout and attendance was poor.

An Associated Press survey of 22 of the U.S. outlets showed a total attendance of 30,739 of a possible 90,375.

Ten Canadian sites reported 15,600 spectators out of a potential 43,300.

Ticket prices ranged from $1 to $7. Chances are the theater-TV outfit that handled the operation — Main Bout, Inc. — will gross around $110,000 from the telecast. That's a far cry from the millions anticipated and the millions realized from previous closed-circuit fight telecasts.

The fight, which was originally to have been between Clay and Ernie Terrell, was rejected by New York, Chicago and other points before it landed in Toronto. Then Terrell pulled out in a contract dispute.

Initially, the match expected to provide a theater-TV bonanza — perhaps even $3 million. But as the difficulties mounted the prospect of about 230 U.S. and Canadian outlets dwindled radically.

In addition, the American Broadcasting Co. decided not to carry the fight on radio in the United States and the British Broadcasting Co. canceled its $100,000 contract to televise the bout live to the United Kingdom via Early Bird satellite.

Jury Begins Investigation Into Boxing

CHICAGO (AP) — Gangland terrorism and mobster control of boxing will be scrutinized in a federal grand jury investigation beginning today.

Government attorneys are expected to delve into the possibility that fights were fixed by syndicated mobsters. They also would like to see several gangland figures land in jail.

The action stems from the ill-fated Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell heavyweight title bout which never came off.

The propoed bout was tossed out of New York, Chicago and finally Montreal before Terrell pulled out altogether.

The fact that it was tossed out of New York resulted in an alleged gangland attack against Bernard Glickman, who then sought protective custody from the FBI and will be the government's star witness in the grand jury hearing.

Glickman, an associate of Terrell reportedly had been warned by the Chicago mob to stay away from the fighter. But when Terrell went to New York to apply for his license to fight Clay, the New York State Athletic Commission refused the request because of Terrell's association with Glickman.

The commission noted that Glickman was on the same plane to New York as was Terrell.

This reportedly so infuriated Chicago mob terrorist Felix (Milwaukee Phil) Alderisio that Alderisio attacked Glickman and threatened the lives of both Glickman and Terrell.

In the meantime, Glickman went into FBI custody and reports were that he was safely tucked away in St. Louis before returning to Chicago for the grand jury hearing.

Terrell says he never had been threatened and that Glickman never was his fight manager although Glickman did act as booking agent for Terrell's night club act.

Costly Holdout In 32nd Day

Koufax, Drysdale Reject 'Final Offer' Of Dodgers

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Baseball's costliest holdout continued into its 32nd day today after pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale rejected what the Los Angeles Dodgers said was their final offer.

General Manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi flew in from Florida via New York to reopen negotiations with his dissident stars and offered them a one-year combined offer of $210,000.

It amounted to a $12,500 increase from his previous offer—$112,500 to 29-game-winner Koufax and $97,500 to 23-game-winner Drysdale.

The players, through their attorney, J. William Hayes, turned it down and were quoted by Bavasi as saying:

"It was simply a matter of economics — not enough money."

The Gold Nugget Twins, who had originally asked for $500,000 apiece on three-year contracts, remained out of touch with the press, which has been their policy to a great extent since they became official holdouts Feb. 27.

"I came to negotiate. That's what they said they wanted. But this must be the end," said Bavasi.

"I think the boys have decided not to play ball this year. This is their privilege and we wish them luck."

Bavasi at first said he would insist on dickering with the players as a twosome, as they had demanded from the outset. But later he said he would talk business with either.

"But my thinking about the offers we have just made would have to be revised — meaning not so much money."

Bavasi, after his rather brief talk with the attorney, called club President Walter O'Malley at the Vero Beach, Fla., training camp. They agreed, he said, that the $210,000 was the highest the club would go.

What do Sandy and Don now want?

"Frankly, I have no idea. All I know is that they wouldn't take what we offered."

The pitchers have signed to play feature roles in a movie which is slated to start filming April 11, the day before the Dodgers open the National League season here.

Manager Walt Alston, trying to fashion another pennant winner in Florida, said: "I'm disappointed. I can't lie about that, but it's no great surprise. I started to give up on them signing two weeks ago.

"I can't be mad at either one of them after all the games they've won for me."

Giants 5-2 Favorite To Capture NL Flag

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Oddsmakers are quoting the San Francisco Giants as the 5-2 favorite in the National League baseball pennant race.

"We've dropped Los Angeles down to second place" at 3-1, a Reno bookie said Tuesday. "But we still believe that Koufax and Drysdale may sign."

The world champion Dodgers were 5-2 favorites to repeat as National League pennant winners. But the betting price fluctuated because ace pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale remain holdouts.

Minnesota and Baltimore are 3-1 cofavorites in the American League.

McMullen's 2 Homers And 5 RBIs Pace Nats

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rain wiped out five exhibition baseball games Tuesday but Ken McMullen brought a ray of sunshine through the clouds for Washington Manager Gil Hodges.

McMullen pounded two home runs and drove in five runs as the Senators whipped Kansas City 6-4 in a game called after eight innings because of rain.

Elsewhere, Minnesota blanked Los Angeles 2-0 in a rain - shortened, five-inning game, Pittsburgh shaded the Chicago White Sox 6-5, San Francisco downed California 2-1 and Chicago outlasted Cleveland 12-10.

The New York Mets-New York Yankee, Baltimore-Detroit, Boston-Houston, St. Louis-Cincinnati and Atlanta-Philadelphia games all were rained out.

McMullen, who was the Senators' regular third baseman last season after coming over from Los Angeles in the Frank Howard-Claude Osteen deal, continued to flash the muscle that made him a Senator favorite in 1965.

The husky infielder walloped 18 home runs last year, second on the club only to Howard's 21, and drove in 54 runs in 150 games.

Hodges, who had batted him in the No. 2 spot most of last year, dropped him to No. 6 Tuesday, hoping to capitalize on his RBI potential, and the move paid off handsomely.

McMullen connected with one man on in the fourth and then with two on in the eighth a the Senators, who had lost their first nine exhibitions, won their fifth straight.

The output hoisted McMullen's spring figures to six homers and 11 RBIs. He leads the club in both departments.

Ken Harrelson and Dick Green homered for Kansas City.

The Twins pushed across two unearned runs to beat the Dodgers in a rematch of last season's World Series opponents.

Harmon Killebrew started the Twins' rally with a fourth-inning single. He moved to second on a wild pitch and then scored on Peewee Oliver's boot of Earl Battey's bouncer. After Jerry Kindall singled Battey to second, Andy Kosco's pinch double brought him home with the second Minnesota run.

Royals Hope To Oust Celts Tonight

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Boston Celtics match their championship pride against the Cincinnati Royals tonight in an attempt to stay alive in the National Basketball Association Eastern Division semifinal playoffs.

The Royals on the other hand hope to apply the knockout blow that can put an end to Boston's seven-year domination of the NBA championship.

Cincinnati leads 2-1 in the best-of-five series, and if Boston loses tonight, its all over. If Boston wins, the fifth and deciding game will be Friday night in Boston.

The winner of the series advances to the Eastern Division final playoffs against the Philadelphia 76ers.

The Royals' hopes are pinned on whether Jerry Lucas, their top rebounder and second leading scorer, will be able to go the distance in tonight's game. Lucas' left knee was injured severely in Sunday's game in Boston.

Coach Jack McMahon said Lucas will open the game in his customary forward spot, but he does not know if he'll last.

Lucas attended Tuesday's practice, but did no running. He had whirlpool treatments three times during the day.

"I shouldn't say I know I won't be able to go at full speed, but I don't think Ill be able to," Lucas said. "I don't really know what's going to happen until I get out there."

McMahon reported the Adrian Smith's injured ankle, injured Saturday, is much better and that he will play.

Boston Coach Red Auerbach, meanwhile, said his team appears healthy and is already planning to play the fifth game in Boston Friday.

Auerbach is retiring at the end of the season and has hopes of winning his eighth consecutive NBA championship before he quits. The Celtics were dethroned this season as Eastern Division champions for the first time in 10 years.

Injuries also will play a big role in tonight's Western Division semifinal at St. Louis.

The Hawks hold a 2-0 advantage over Baltimore after winning the first two games on the Bullets' home floor and, with Baltimore hobbled by injuries, St. Louis figures to end the series.

Milwaukee's Seen Wrong On Estimate

By HARRY CHANDLER
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A baseball executive says Milwaukee is overestimating the drawing power of a first-year major league expansion club.

Francis X. Leary, vice president and treasurer of the expansion-born California Angels, says Milwaukee could not expect an attendance of 800,000.

The Angels drew only 630,000 in their first season, 1961, and he implied that's about what Milwaukee might expect.

Leary, a defense witness Tuesday in the Circuit Court trial of Wisconsin's antitrust suit against baseball, said:

"I question whether 800,000 people will come that first year with an expansion club."

The minimum 800,000 annual attendance was included in testimony given earlier in the trial by Alan H. (Bud) Selig, president of Milwaukee Brewers Inc.

The organization applied to the National League for a 1966 replacement franchise for the Atlanta-bound Braves but the senior circuit turned down the bid. Club owners said the Brewers lacked adequate capitalization, financing organization and experience.

Leary, assistant treasurer of the Braves in Milwaukee from 1953 through 1960, testified he had met with Selig in Los Angeles last July and had given him information based on the Angels' experience.

Leary testified that no expansion club drew 800,000 in its first year. He said between 600,000 and 700,000 was a likely figure.

The defense offered in evidence Tuesday some 30 exhibits in its efforts to link the Brewers' franchise bid with the antitrust suit brought by the state.

Baseball attorneys claim that the state is not the real party of interest in the suit and that the action is intended to force the National League to grant a franchise in Milwaukee.

The state is asking Judge Elmer W. Roller to order the Braves to return to Milwaukee unless the league grants the city a replacement club. It accuses league members of conspiring to use baseball's monopoly status to boycott the city as a major league site.

Economist New Leader In Ecuador

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Clemente Yerovi Indaburo, a nonpartian economist, has been named provisional president of Ecuador after student demonstrators, businessmen and labor leaders brought down the military junta.

Yerovi, 62, was appointed Tuesday by the military high command which threw out the three-man junta. The high command said it named Yerovi on the advice of political leaders and fully supported him.

The appointment of a civilian president ended five days of violent anti-junta student demonstrations in which at least seven persons were killed and a business strike in Guayaquil, Ecuador's port and largest city.

The students claimed the junta's policies were oppressive. The businessmen opposed new taxes and import restrictions.

The military command said it was dissolving the junta "to avoid chaos and anarchy." There were indications that the military chiefs acted without the junta's knowledge, but junta members had said earlier they would resign if a civilian president could be agreed on.

The whereabouts of the junta members — Rear Adm. Ramon Castro Jijon, Gen. Marcos Gandara and Gen. Cabrera Sevilla — was not immediately known. There were unconfirmed reports that they had fled to Brazil or Peru.

The junta had ruled since the drunkenness of President Carlos Arosemena became a public scandal and the military threw him out on July 11, 1963.

Yerovi was proposed for provisional president by ex-President Galo Plaza Lasso in whose 1948-52 administration he served as minister of agriculture.

During that term in office, Yerovi was given much credit for increasing the country's banana exports. He also served as first president of the National Planning Council and as Ecuador's ambassador to the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization in Paris. He also represented his country at the Common Market in Europe.

Yerovi is regarded as a liberal. He has never been a member of any political party and is respected by all political factions for his competence in the economic field.

In Washington, the State Department had no reaction to the junta's ouster and Yerovi's appointment.

Gosney Replies To Republicans On College Plan

Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, county Democratic chairman, today issued a reply to a Republican statement made public Tuesday deploring alleged politics in plans for establishment of a County Community College.

"I have not brought up politics in any way regarding the Community College," Gosney declared. However, he said the Republican party "is well represented on the Board of Trustees of the college."

He said the county GOP committee apparently does not agree with the state organization on educational policies and declared that John Marshall Briley, chairman of the Ohio Board of Regents, ran as a Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate four years ago. He also declared that John Bricker, former senator, has been a trustee of Ohio State University for many years.

"As to politics in educational planning, I want to point out that all of this planning starts in the State Legislature and these gentlemen are interested in politics," Gosney said. "I would like to forget petty politics and work for the good of Columbiana County. I don't believe you can be all things to all men and get things done."

Auto Tampering Case Results In Jail For 2

LISBON — Two East Liverpool men were committed Tuesday to the County Jail for nonpayment of fines imposed when they were convicted on charges of unlawful tampering with a motor vehicle.

The defendants, Robert Mellott of 622 Jackson St. and Norman Buzzard of R. D. 1, both 25, pleaded guilty to the charges before Judge J. L. MacDonald in Southwest Area County Court. The judge fined them $50 each.

In other court action, two Wellsville men were fined $10 each on separate traffic charges. They are Kenneth R. Morris, 35, charged with speeding, and Charles A. Plate, 51, operating a motor vehicle without tail lights.

Gary A. Huffer, 19, Salem forfeited a $15 bond on a charge of failing to heed a stop sign.

New Bid Slated Today To Orbit Laboratory

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —The space agency was to try again today to launch an orbiting astronomical observatory to give man his first clear look at the stars from above the obscuring blanket of the earth's atmosphere.

An Atlas-Agena rocket was to lift OAO into orbit between 3:11 and 4:11 p.m. (EST). The shot was postponed Monday because of weather and technical problems.

Boys Nabbed In Entry Case

SALINEVILLE — Three boys —one linked with a car entering in Wellsville — face hearings in Juvenile Court Friday in connection with a breaking and entering at the Salineville Feed Mill March 21.

The youths, aged 13 to 15 and all from Salineville, were taken into custody by Police Chief Ray Keister, who said several articles taken from the mill were found at their homes.

The loot included a movie projector, chain saw, tools, electric sander and other items.

The entering was discovered last week by Paul McCully of Carrollton, owner.

Chief Keister said an adding machine, papers and items taken from the Railway Express Agency office in an entering last week were found behind the Washington Township garage Tuesday. He is continuing his investigation.

Community College Gets More Support

LISBON — The establishment of a Columbiana County Community College was favored in a resolution adopted Monday night at a meeting of the County Board of Education and boards of four local school districts.

The regular combined meeting was held at Southern Local High School with Allen G. Chamberlin of Leetonia R. D., president of the county board, in charge.

James McBride, county superintendent, said he has been directed to send copies of the resolution to the Ohio Board of Regents and Gov. James Rhodes.

Big Rise In Medical Schools Seen By '70

CHICAGO (AP) — By 1970, there will be a big rise in medical schools.

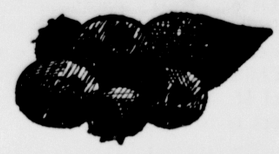

The American Medical Association says that 14 new schools are scheduled to be in full operation, bringing the U.S. total to 101.

The new schools will provide for 800 to 1,000 new medical school freshmen. Eight will have four-year programs leading to the MD degree.

What Quality Beef Does A&P Sell?

That's a fair question. But not an easy one to answer because we have our own quality standards, different from any other meat merchant.

These standards don't fit exactly the familiar terms you know for grades of meat. As an example, did you know that some beef, graded U.S. Choice, just doesn't meet our "Super-Right" specifications? It's true! You see ... we don't buy by grade. We use our own high standards to bring you the best values.

That doesn't mean we don't approve of such grading—not at all. It just means we're very fussy about the beef we label "Super-Right." It stands to reason we have to be or A&P wouldn't be America's number one meat merchant.

Are "Super-Right" Meats a good reason for shopping A&P?

They're one of many!

SPICE UP YOUR HAM

EASTER EGG TREE

Buy a styrofoam cone (3-½ inches in diameter and 9 inches high). Paint it green, using a mixture of 1 teaspoon Green Food Color and 2 teaspoons Durkee's Vanilla and a paint brush. Let dry overnight.

Poke a hole in each end of desired number of eggs and blow contents into bowl. (Cover bowl and save eggs for scrambled eggs or to use according to directions on Food Color package.)

Fasten the styrofoam cone into a dish or container of your choice. (Use clay, glue, or adhesive tape.) Cut colored pipe cleaners into various lengths and poke into cone. String shells on pipe cleaners, curl ends of cleaners 2 or 3 times over small pencil or knitting needle. Secure shells to the "curls". Arrange green paper "grass" around the base of the cone.

CINNAMON GLAZED HAM

Bake uncooked ham, fat side up, in moderate oven 325° F., using chart below (for pre-cooked ham, follow directions on package). About 45 minutes before end of cooking, remove rind, score fat ¼ inches deep to form diamonds. Insert whole cloves into center of each diamond.

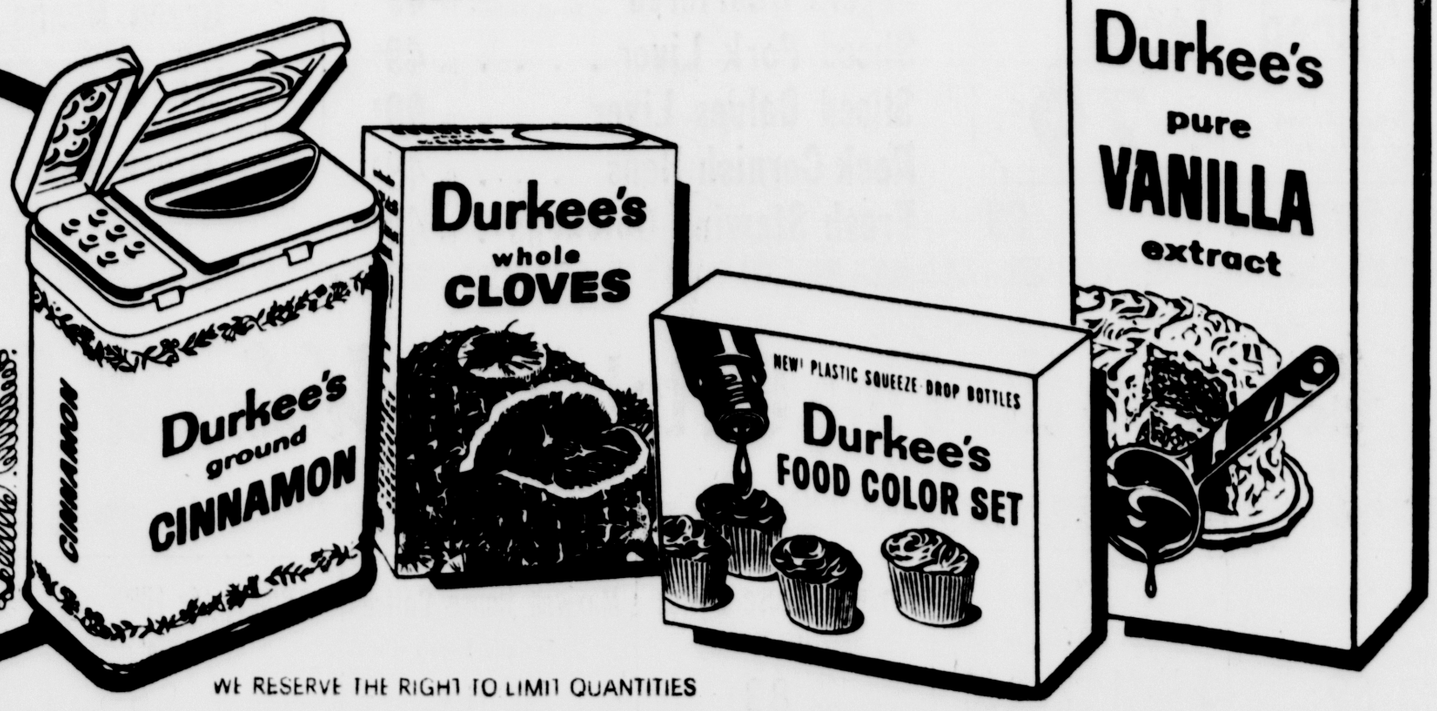

Make glaze by combining 1 cup granulated sugar and 2½ tsp. Durkee's Ground Cinnamon. Stir in ½ cup syrup from canned fruit (peaches, pineapple or apricot). Pour one-half of glaze over ham and return to oven. Bake 45 minutes longer basting with remaining glaze.

Less Fit To Fight

Army, Marine Division Totals Under Last Year's

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The force of Army and Marine divisions available in the United States for swift crisis duty is considerably smaller and less fit to fight than last summer.

There were 10 such divisions in this country late last July when President Johnson ordered a major buildup of ground units in Viet Nam. Eight were Army divisions, two Marine.

Most of these divisions were in reasonably good combat ready shape, although a few had sent elements to Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Now there are but seven divisions in any kind of fighting shape — and a Defense Department spokesman acknowledged Tuesday that most of these are below full combat status because they are being used, in part, to train draftees and recruits.

Six of these divisions belong to the Army and one to the Marine Corps.

The Pentagon spokesman said four Army divisions "are not in the same combat ready status that they would have been" had they not been given the training mission.

"It was foreseen that some of these divisions would not be at full combat status at this time," he said.

But the spokesman said the divisions will be returned gradually to full combat readiness and some will reach that stage by June.

He listed the four as the 1st and 2nd Armored at Ft. Hood, Tex., the 4th Infantry at Ft. Lewis, Wash., and the 5th Mechanized at Ft. Carson, Colo.

The Army Times, a nonofficial publication with strong service ties, said about 26,000 recruits are being trained by these four divisions.

Not mentioned by the spokesman was the 101st Airborne Division at Ft. Campbell, Ky. This division — which has shipped one brigade to the war — also is training new men. Reports place the total at 2,000.

A serviceman cannot be assigned overseas until he has had at least four months of training.

The Pentagon spokesman said that once a decision was made not to call reservists and National Guardsmen to active duty — but to build up the regular forces gradually — "it was foreseen that some of the divisions would be used" for training.

Army authorities said this action was necessary because Army training centers, though expanded, are overtaxed.

The Defense Department spokesman said "it was planned" that some of the Army divisions in the States would assume training functions.

"It was intended to be that way," he said. "It was not something that just came about."

The spokesman did not explain why the Pentagon had not previously disclosed the action, which he said was authorized last year.

There was no suggestion of this move in Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's March 2 news conference at which he blasted as without foundation reports that the United States is militarily over-extended.

"Far from overextending ourselves we have actually strengthened our military position," McNamara contended.

Committee To Draft Bylaws For Tri-State 40 & 8 Unit

A committee to draft a constitution and bylaws for the newly - organized Tri - State Association of the 40 & 8 Society was appointed Sunday during a meeting at American Legion Post 10 in Weirton.

Named were M. J. Sweeney of East Liverpool; Evert Maki of Weirton; Frank Bowman, grand chef de gare of Pennsylvania; James Mach of Indiana County, Pa.; Ralph Johnson of East Liverpool; Richard Allender of Moundsville, and Richard Robson and James L. Sindlefecper of Jefferson County, Ohio.

The committee will meet again Saturday at the Weirton post to draft the constitution and bylaws, the objectives of which will be the promotion of the 40 & 8 Society and its program in the tri-state area.

The report of the committee will be submitted at the next association meeting May 1 at the American Legion Post in Follansbee.

Officers elected at Sunday's meeting were Sweeney, president; John R. Laycock of Washington County, Pa., and Sindlefecper, vice presidents; Maki, correspondent; Raymond Oest of Washington County, commissaire intendant; Allender, conducteur, and Art Rosenberger of Belmont County, Ohio, and Herky Burnett of Follansbee as drapeaux.

A letterhead and cap patch were adopted.

A "wreck" was held Saturday meeting preceding the association meeting, with seven new members initiated into the society. The "wrecking crew" of Washington County, Pa., was in charge.

The women of the 40 & 8 Society met at the Weirton post Sunday. Mrs. Jackie Allender of Moundsville, sou president nationale, Societe Des Femmes, attended. The tri - state group discussed plans for organizing a women's district Cabane Locale.

Fitness Club To Hold Easter Hat 'Parade'

The East Liverpool Physical Fitness Club will hold a "parade" of Easter hats at a meeting Wednesday, April 6, at the Eagles Lodge ballroom.

Plans were made when the group met Monday night at the ballroom, with members of the Glenmoor Physical Fitness Club as guests. Thirty - eight attended.

The march was led by Mrs. Dorothy Ganas and Mrs. Jackie McVay. Mrs. Lana White, president, directed exercises. New members were weighed. Mrs. Connie Lawson of Cleveland was a guest.

"Weigh-in Night" is scheduled at the next meeting Monday. Miss Darlene Taylor, beauty consultant, will be guest speaker.

Window Displays Slated

Chamber Of Commerce 'Week' Will Open Sunday

The local observance of National Chamber of Commerce Week will begin Sunday and continue through Saturday, April 9.

The East Liverpool Area Chamber virtually has completed plans for the program locally, emphasizing its role of service to its members and to the community.

A window display at the D M Ogilvie Co. store will help tell the story, with exhibits of the materials used in the Chamber's operation. Half the display will be devoted to illustrating the organization's services to its members and the balance will be utilized to explain services to the community.

THE DISPLAY on service to members will be made up primarily of brochures, directories, statistical lists and other materials which the Chamber keeps in its files to answer enquiries and provide data on the area.

The community service display will cite the Chamber's programs for improved highways, better education, safety and fire prevention, neighborhood cleanup efforts and the community protection service against unscrupulous itinerant salesmen which it operates through its affiliation with the National Better Business Bureau.

Two big billboard displays, one on St. Clair Ave. and the other at 3rd and Market Sts., also will be used to call attention to the observance.

The huge placards will read: "It takes two — your Chamber of Commerce and you — for progress."

The billboard spaces were loaned by the First National Bank and the Ceramic Poster Advertising Co.

E. R. Chandler, executive manager, estimated the Chamber receives 75 to 100 pieces of mail monthly seeking information on East Liverpool and the Tri-State District. They fall into several broad categories: Questions about East Liverpool in general or the pottery industry; queries from prospective visitors about points of interest and recreational sites, and requests for community data from students who are writing themes or preparing reports.

Some of the questions relate to the history of the city and its industries. Many seek information on old-time potteries and their products.

THE CHAMBER has several mailing pieces designed to answer broad questions. One covers a list of all the points of interest — scenic and historic — as well as recreational sites in the tri-state area.

Another is a picture brochure crammed with photos and statistics that is designed primarily to interest new businesses or industries in locating in the district.

One of the busiest adjuncts of the Chamber is the East Liverpool Merchants Organization, an affiliate which coordinates the programs of the city's retailers.

ELMA's activities and projects run the gamut from arranging the annual community Christmas program and decorations to sponsoring two Dollar Day sales and other promotions periodically.

The local Chamber traces its history back to 1915, when it was organized in its present form in a brisk three-day membership drive. Its predecessors were a Board of Trade that functioned more than 60 years ago, a Boosters Club and a Chamber of Commerce that did not have national and state affiliations.

State School Superintendent Talks To Hancock Teachers

Rex Smith, state superintendent of West Virginia schools, discussed impending salary increases in an address to the Hancock County Classroom Teachers Association Tuesday night at a meeting in the Little Theater at Weir High School in Weirton.

Smith explained salary increases that are to go into effect with the 1967-68 school year, which will mean higher pay for teachers meeting the requirements of a bachelors' degree plus 15 hours of graduate credit in an approved graduate program.

Salary increases also will be given to teachers who hold a masters degree and have 15 hours of additional graduate credit with additional pay to those who have 30 hours beyond the masters degree. Smith pointed out that all graduate hours earned prior to Sept. 1, 1966, will apply toward the increases in salary.

—:—

HE ALSO stressed that teachers who qualify for the raises should apply for them as soon as forms are available so it can be determined how much money will have to be allocated in the state education budget for 1967-68. Smith's office is in the process of devising application forms for the raises.

This is the final step in "Project 65" which saw all West Virginia teachers receiving a raise in the 1965-66 school year with a similar raise in the offing in the 1966-67 school year.

Smith indicated that the final raise in 1967-68 will mean about $2 per month per year's experience for teachers who qualify.

Smith was accompanied by Asst. Supt. John St. Clair, who is in charge of instruction. St. Clair participated in the question and answer session that followed Smith's talk.

A BRIEF business session followed so that teachers might be nominated for the county offices for 1966-67. Nominated for president was William Allison of Chester; Ava Hall of Weirton was nominated for vice president, Carolyn Rice and Bonnie McLaren, both of Weirton, will vie for the secretary's post and Judy Vickers of Weirton was placed on the ballot for treasurer.

Unopposed as directors are Ruth Ann Wise of New Cumberland, for the elementary schools, George LaNeve of Newell, retiring president, for the Junior Highs, and Charles Davis of Weirton for the High Schools.

The invocation and benediction were asked by Mrs. Betty Shaw, curriculum coordinator for the Junior High Schools of Hancock County. William Allison, vice president, introduced Smith and the Hancock County Teacher's Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Mary Ann Psaros sang several selections.

George LaNeve, county president, presided.

LaNeve of Wells Junior High School in Newell, will be chairman of the state auditing committee for the West Virginia Classroom Teachers Association at their spring conference in Fairmont, Thursday and Friday. Also serving on the committee will be Mrs. Thelma Daugherty of Weirton.

Representing Hancock county, in addition to LaNeve, will be William Allison of Chester and Miss Betty Buben of Newell. Mrs. Daugherty is a member of the state Board of Directors.

Southern Local's Senior Play May Draw Some 250

SALINEVILLE — Some 250 are expected for the Southern Local High School senior class play, "Bachelor Father," Thursday and Friday nights at 8 at the high school.

The play depicts a group of teen - agers and a "battle of sexes" and how they become involved with an important community bond issue.

The lead players include Eileen Pierson, Gary Leishman, David Carpenter, Dianne Deichon, Jack Fergason, Kathy Rose and Bill McPherson.

Miss Darlene Balmos is director.

The rest of the cast includes Trudy Brothers, Shirley Brown, Dolores Guthrie, Bonnie Chevront, Renee Forbes, Beverly Reight, Debbie McCullough, Sue Hirst, Stan Miller, Nancy Shaff, Charlene Lee, Tom Fergason, Sandy Osgood, Janice Hunter, Christine Patterson, Tilford Jones, Nancy Thompson, Bruce Melhorn, Jim Falconer, Jim Feth and Tom Hays.

Ohio 5-Day Forecast

Temperatures will average 3-6 degrees below normal for the period Thursday through Monday. Representative normal high and low temperatures are Cleveland 51-31, Columbus 56-34, Cincinnati 58-39. Cooler Thursday with little day to day change thereafter. Precipitation will total about .1 inch extreme south, ranging to about .5 inch extreme north, occurring as snow flurries northeast Thursday and more general showers Friday and Sunday.

Saute strips of green pepper in butter, then add seasoned beaten eggs and scramble. The combination makes a delightful sandwich filling when layered between the two halves of a crusty roll.

Triumphant Progress Report

"I have dropped 20 ugly pounds. I am winning! It is almost impossible to describe the feeling within me!"

Ida Jean Kain

This triumphant line is from the homemaker-carrerist who asked at the first of the year to be our model reducer. To recap her original letter: This is the reader who started with Help, Help, Help! However, her attitude was refreshingly different from many who start with that desperate plea. She was determined to help herself.

In 11 years her weight had climbed from 150 to 205 pounds and a size 20. (Height, 5' 9½") Thinking through her problem, she decided the 55-pound gain was due to the habit of overeating on the wrong foods. Also to the fact that she lacked a goal.

—:—

NOW TO continue her second letter, which was written two months later.

"I know now that I can do it! I am reducing on the high protein - protective plan. I would, from experience, recommend it to every person alive today. I do not feel hungry and know I am better nourished than on my old fattening food habits. I keep within 1000 to 1100 calories a day. It's fun!

"My doctor is most pleased with my progress. Before I started reducing my blood pressure was 150 over 104. I'll bet if you would do a good scary column on the dangers of high blood pressure, folks would start to think, and eat to live instead of living to eat!

"I am not enclosing my measurements this time. feel it is good pyschology to keep working toward figure improvement, but to measure every second month. I now enjoy fitting comfortably into size 18.

—:—

"ONE LAST thing. You have stated in your column from time to time that help could be found through prayer. I pray differently now. Instead of a begging kind of prayer, I thank God for my progress. After all, if you cannot say a simple thank you for daily blessings, how can you expect to receive the bigger things?

"God is right there, ready to help. But if you don't take His arm and believe, you'll never find out how much He can help.

"Thank you so much for letting me pour out these thoughts. I truly feel like a new individual. I am looking forward to reporting the next ten pounds off. So, until Easter."

Bless you!

We're all looking forward to your Easter report. Prayer is anwered according to your belief. Believe it. . .accept it. . . thank God for it. . .and act on it!

Homecoming Set For Astronaut At Wapakoneta

WAPAKONETA, Ohio (AP)—A twin-jet plane will touch down at either Lima or Dayton April 13 and touch off Wapakoneta's gala homecoming for native son Neil Armstrong, Gemini 8 space hero.

Wapakoneta Chamber of Commerce officials reported Tuesday night the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had notified them of the date and approved a timetable for the one-day celebration.

Accompanying Armstrong, who brushed with death as command pilot of the capsule that made the historic linkup with an Agena orbital vehicle, will be his wife, Janet, and sons Mark and Eric, and NASA officials.

Don Wittwer, chamber president, said the Armstrongs are expected to arrive from Houston, Tex., about 10 a.m. two weeks from today. Plans called for a Lima landing, but were subject to change in case the airport there can't accommodate a twin-jet landing.

After welcoming ceremonies at the airport, the Ohio Highway Patrol will escort the party down—or up—Interstate 75 to U. S. 33 and on to the Auglaize County Fairgrounds here.

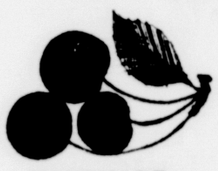

Mental Health Center Due In Cuyahoga Falls

CUYAHOGA FALLS, Ohio (AP)—During a visit here Tuesday the State Capital Planning and Improvement Advisory Board was told of plans for a $650,000 mental health center at the Summit County Receiving Hospital here.

Dr. William Polanka, hospital superintendent, said the plans were presented informally to pave the way for an appropriation.

Bandit Grabs $2,365

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—A gunman robbed bowling alley manager John Bolando who was on his way to a bank to make a deposit Tuesday and escaped with $2,365, police said.

This spread is brand new. It tastes exactly like peanut butter and bacon... but there's no bacon in it.

Until now, when you wanted a peanut butter and bacon sandwich you had to fry the bacon until it crisped, drain off the fat, blot up excess drippings with paper towels, crumble the bacon in a mixing bowl, and add a generous amount of Skippy® Peanut Butter. Then you got a large spoon and stirred until it was well mixed and reasonably easy to spread.

Skippy has changed all that. New Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps has taken the work and the mess and the cleaning-up out of making a peanut butter and bacon sandwich.

New Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps has all the crunch, crackle and old-fashioned smokehouse flavor of bacon. But instead of bacon, Skippy has created little crisps of vegetable protein with remarkably true bacon flavor. These, mixed with Skippy, make a tasty spread—perfect for snacks, canapes, and sandwiches, even on meatless days.

So, for all you people who like the taste of a bacon and Skippy sandwich, try them together in new Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps.

Try some and Skippy will send you 25 cents in cash!

We're so sure you'll like the exciting taste of new Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps that we'll send you 25 cents in cash for just buying a jar—any size!

Simply send the label from a jar of Skippy Peanut Butter with Smoky Crisps, and the coupon provided here to Skippy Smoky Crisps, Box 43A, Brooklyn, New York 11202. By return mail, Skippy will send you 25 cents in cash.

This offer is limited to one cash return per family.

At Risk Of Reviving Specter Of Stalinism

Soviet Gives China Final Terms

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

At the risk of frightening its own people by reviving the specter of Stalinism, the Soviet Communist party has laid down what probably are its final terms for reconciliation with the Red Chinese. Chances are the Kremlin has been unable to offer Peking nearly enough and that the dispute will continue.

By advancing its terms Tuesday before an audience of Communist chieftains from around the world, at the 23rd Soviet party congress, the Kremlin sought to absolve itself of blame for the rupture. It replied to violent abuse with a soft answer and an offer of compromise. Now the Kremlin can tell world communism that the rest is up to Red China, that Peking must bear the responsibility if the Communist world remains divided.

Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Soviet party chief, told the congress his party was "prepared to do everything possible" to mend relations with Peking. But some Chinese demands, from Moscow's viewpoint, are downright impossible.

For example, Peking wants the Kremlin to concede that virtually every policy step Moscow has taken since 1956 has been wrong and should be reversed. It has demanded what would amount to a public apology to Red China and an abject admission of guilt for all that happened to the movement in the past 10 years.

Obviously, the Russians won't oblige. The U.S.S.R. is the dominant power in the Communist world. The party would not put itself in the position of knuckling under to any other.

To many ears, the Chinese have been abusive and insulting while the Kremlin held its tongue, preserving its dignity.

The Chinese have not confined themselves to blasting Soviet world Communist and foreign policies. They have also made scorching attacks on the Soviet internal system. They have ridiculed Soviet attempts to raise living standards and increase consumer production as capitulation to capitalist notions. To Peking, the world revolution should always have come first.

Calling the present Soviet leaders "Khrushchev revisionists," the Chinese Communists branded as the rankest heresy the idea of offering material incentives to workers for higher production. They claimed Soviet production has been placed "in the fetters of capitalist production relations."

All this blatant interference in Soviet internal affairs probably has been hard for the Kremlin to swallow. But swallow it did, even to the extent of backtracking in the anti-Stalin campaign and taking steps which suggest echoes of the dreary old Stalinist days. Obviously there is widespread dismay among Soviet intellectuals at this prospect.

It won't be enough for Peking. Red China wants far more. It wants a Soviet Union ready to take the biggest risks to advance the cause of violent revolution, and it has said so clearly.

Peaceful coexistence, Peking has said, is a sham and a cowardly device. It has spurned the Kremlin's contention that this policy might advance revolution by disarming its enemies. It has heaped ridicule on the idea that total war — as opposed to small revolutionary wars — should be avoided.

The official Peking People's Daily recently remarked that there were risks greater than total war — the risk, for example, of retarding the revolutionary wave. "There is no other choice but to wage a bloody war for the complete annihilation of the imperialist enemy," the paper said.

The 23rd congress gesture conceivably could lead to some sort of meeting on the differences between the two Red giants, but there seems little prospect of a meeting of minds. The outlook appears to be for more and even deeper division in the world Communist movement.

Rep. Hays Addresses Class At Mt. Pleasant

Rep. Wayne L. Hays of the 18th Congressional District addressed a scholarship dinner of the senior class Tuesday night at the Mt. Pleasant High School in Jefferson County.

"We are living in the greatest nation on earth," the Democratic congressman said. Citing the challenges of the atomic age, he declared that "the world has a bright side as well as a serious side."

"With future leaders such as our students, I have no fear that even greater things will be accomplished," he said. Rep. Hays flew back to Washington last night from Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

4 More Killed In Ohio Traffic

By The Associated Press

A grandmother of five, killed in a car-truck crash on a Cleveland freeway, is among Ohio's latest traffic victims.

Fatalities Tuesday included:

Mrs. Cora Jean Mosier, 45, Cleveland.

Jacob S. Stauffer, 86, Marshallville, Wayne County.

Elliott Fetterman, 20, Cleveland Heights.

Ross Crawford, 57, Massillon.

Mrs. Mosier, grandmother of five, was fatally injured when her car and a beer truck collided on Cleveland's Willow Freeway Tuesday night.

Stauffer, crossing Ohio 5 on foot near his home in northeastern Wayne County, was hit by a small truck.

A pickup truck hit Fetterman as he crossed a Cleveland intersection just after stepping from a bus.

Crawford's auto ran off U.S. 62 near Navarre in Stark County.

Shanghai, with 6,900,000 people, remains the most populous city in Communist China despite its decline as a world trade center. Shanghai's colorful waterfront was once jammed with merchantmen from all over the world; now it is strangely quiet.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I always have thought you were crazy. Now I'm sure. What do you mean telling parents to hide their bodies from their children? Don't you know this is the reason we have so many sex maniacs running around loose?

They are the products of ignorant parents who encouraged shamed and unsatisfied curiosity.

Not only are you crazy but you are also inconsistent. In your column several months ago you told women they should not hide from their husbands. You said undressing in the closet was wrong.

I stood up and cheered for you that time. I said to myself, "That Ann Landers has a good head on her shoulders." And then you let me down when you came out with that foolish theory.

I wish the editor would throw your column out of our paper and print more farm news. — WISCONSIN READER.

Dear Reader: About my "inconsistency": I hope it will come as no surprise to you to learn that the relationship between a parent and a child of the opposite sex is not the same as the relationship between a man and his wife.

Now, I hate to keep you away from your tractor, Zeke, but I hope you'll stick around long enough to read the next letter.

Dear Ann: We are two teenagers who read your column faithfully. We would like to settle, once and for all, the argument about the mother who undressed before her 12-year-old. The source we present is the Bible.

Lev. XVIII: 6 part of 7:

"None of you shall approach to any that is near of kin to him, to uncover their nakedness: I am the Lord."

"She is thy mother; thou shalt not uncover her nakedness."

We thought you might like to know that God is on your side. Sincerely yours. — CANADIAN TEENS.

-:-

Dear Teens: Thanks for your heavenly support, kids. I love you dearly!

Uninvited

Dear Ann: Should my husband go to his daughter's wedding without me? She is his first wife's child and we never got along, although I tried my best to tolerate her snippiness.

This girl has every one or her mother's bad qualities plus a few of her own. They lived in another city and I haven't seen the ex-wife or the daughter for almost four years.

The invitation was addressed to my husband, which I consider a slap in the face since he and I have been married for 12 years.

My husband is going to give his daughter in marriage. He probably will act very husbandly toward his ex-wife since she has not remarried. I say he is helping them insult me if he goes to this wedding and leaves me at home. What do you say? —EXCLUDED.

-:-

Dear Ex: It always has been a mystery to me that anyone would want to go where he is not invited. Some ex-wives get along with the first family and they do get invited. It obviously doesn't work that way in your family so please have the good sense and the grace to stay home.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Boy With Two Sisters Feels Rejected

Many mothers have written over the years to say that a son or daughter asks, "Do you love me?" Sometimes it's, "Do you love me as much as you love —?" Most mothers add that they try to reassure the questioning child of their love for him; some indicate long explanations. A few say these explanations meet with reasons why the question was asked. A mother from California writes of her son, nine:

Dr. Garry Myers

"I have a problem which worries me a great deal. seems to be getting worse instead of better. Both my son and I are getting to be nervous wrecks. He is loud, cocky, and very inclined to throwing fits (like a two-year-old) lately. He says, 'No one loves me'; 'Everyone in this house hates me'; 'You don't love me, do you mother?' He says this constantly as to think of nothing else.

—:—

"I GIVE my son attention, affection, lots of help with homework, etc., so I cannot see why he does this. He seems so terribly unhappy all the time, wants to leave home (with me) and live somewhere else without his two sisters and father. Everyone says he is very proud of me and very dependent on me. He plays with several children his own age. He gets along with all the children at school. He is constantly telling his teacher that he likes her. She says he is very affectionate.

"He is now asking his friends if they like him, which they say he does quite often lately. He has quite a bit of work to do at home on spelling and reading, but I do not let him work too long. He loves T.V. and seems to go off into another world and does not hear anything else. But at regular times (very often) he will turn and ask if I love him. He seems so high - strung in the past months. I have considered a doctor but will wait to see what you say."

My reply in part:

I would advise you to consult his physician and ask him to recommend to you a psychiatrist. The school psychologist might give you some help. In the meantime sit down in quiet privacy with Dad and try to find out why this boy feels so insecure and keeps asking you the one question.

DOES THIS boy suppose the girls are the father's favorites and that they and the father are ganged up against you and him? Apparently the lad feels it's only you who really loves him in the family and is often doubtful even of your love. Naturally he would like to go away with just you.

No doubt you give this boy word-assurances of your love. In the future when he asks this question merely reply, " Of course I do," and no more. His bid for affection of his teacher and asking his friends if they like him is a part of the picture, but you can't do much to guide them in their response to him. It is not strange he seems nervous, under the conditions you relate.

With your physician's help you might be able to calm down this boy, though his central worry could keep him upset. You parents might be able to reduce his viewing of TV and turn him to more activities.

You say you help him with his homework. Are you able to keep calm and patient as you do? Does Dad help him? Does he feel he is succeeding at school and on the playground as well as are his sisters?

YOU INDICATE he is overdependent on you. Doesn't Dad share in his guidance and companionship? I think Dad could do most for that boy as he spends more time with him, going places with him and taking other boys his age along, and attracting his friends to your home. You and your relatives and friends should try to build him up and help him feel more worthwhile in the family.

Perhaps you need to study the girls to make sure they don't impose on him. Isn't it possible to have more good times in the family with all these children together? Anything you can do to help him get on better with his schoolwork should make him feel more worthy.

Weary Truck Driver Gets Rest In Theater

MT. VERNON, Ill. (AP) — A weary truck driver passing through Mt. Vernon decided to go to a movie, fell asleep and got locked in the theater.

At 12:49 a.m. Redford Cherry of Bowling Green, Ky., called police for help to get out.

Police called Ralph Pavitt, a theater employe who used a key to unlock the theater.

Cherry thanked everyone and, then refreshed, went on his way.

Ohio Aviatrix First Woman To Fly Solo In Navy Plane

By The Associated Press

One history-maker seeking to add another page and one boasting a brand new "First" have Ohio in the national aerospace spotlight again.

This time it's not astronauts, but aviatrixes.

There's Jerrie Mock making news in San Francisco and Navy Ens. Gale Ann Gordon doing likewise in Pensacola, Fla.

While Mrs. Mock completed planning on the West Coast for her latest try for a world record, Miss Gordon has broken precedent in Florida.

Ensign Gordon, 23, of Stow near Akron, became Tuesday the first woman in the history of the Naval Air Basic Training Command to fly solo in a Navy training plane.

After 40 hours' ground instruction and 14½ hours of dual flight time, up she went alone in a T34 propeller-driven plane at Saufley Auxiliary Air Station.

Miss Gordon won her wings as part of an instruction course qualifying her as an aviation experimental psychologist.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gordon of Stow, she holds a masters degree in experimental psychology from the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Mock of Columbus is the pilot who a couple of years back became the first woman to fly solo around the world in a light plane.

Today she planned to take off from San Jose, Calif., in her single-engine craft for a trip by easy stages to Wake Island.

The return trip won't be so leasurely.

Mrs. Mock plans to fly the 4,200 miles from Wake to the U. S. West Coast nonstop. That would break the women's nonstop flying record of 3,671 miles by a team of three Russians in 1938.

Shee said she hopes to leave Wake next week and reach the Portland, Ore., area 32 hours later.

People Over 65 Given Reminder On Registration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Persons over 65 have only until Thursday night to sign up for the voluntary doctor bill insurance plan that becomes effective July 1 under the medicare program.

Social Security officials said they expect a last-minute rush of enrollments to push the number signed up to nearly 90 per cent of the more than 16.5 million persons eligible.

The agency's offices will stay open late tonight and until midnight Thursday to accommodate the estimated 1.6 million persons who have not as yet registered. Those signing up will pay a premium of $3 monthly.

Twenty House Republicans asked the White House Tuesday to support their proposal to extend the registration deadline past March 31, a date they say is arbitrary.

Pleas Judge Rules Dairy Strike Illegal

CINCINNATI (AP)—Common Pleas Court Judge Raymond E. Shannon ruled Tuesday a strike by Dairy Workers Local 98 against the Kroger Co. was illegal.

He ordered the union to end the walkout at Kroger's Springdale dairy plant. Shannon said a labor contract was valid, although the union contended it was not.

21 Massillon Police Quit In Wage Dispute

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Voicing regret, 21 Massillon policemen resigned, effective April 15, climaxing a three-month feud with city council over pay raises and leaving this city of 32,000 population with 11 policemen.

The policemen, including two captains and a sergeant, resigned en masse Tuesday, and in a joint statement they expressed regret and their reasons for resigning.

Mayor William J. Keen says he is seeking assistance from the Ohio National Guard and may deputize qualified citizens and firemen until more policemen are hired. He said the Ohio Highway Patrol and the Stark County Sheriff's Department have offered to aid the city.

The resignations came after city council voted to increase uniform allowances from $100 to $150 a year and to pay half the policemen's hospital insurance benefits. The stumbling block was not agreeing on a pay increase.

Police wanted raises to $498 a month from the current $474 —increased Jan. 1 from the former $447 monthly rate. The officers also wanted an additional five per cent increases next Jan. 1.

In their statement, the police said they felt they received no satisfaction from council, a citizen's committee set up to study the demands, or Mayor Keen.

"We have taken every channel possible to avert what is happening today. We are doing this after we waited for a long period of time for city council to make their final decision."

Keen called the resignations "an abandonment of the duty to protect the community which the police took an oath to uphold."

The force will be left with two captains, Chief J. A. DiLoreto and five patrolmen.

Keen said the resignations can be withdrawn any time between now and April 15.

Pennsylvania Investigation

Probers Of State Police Study Bid For 600 More

HARRISBURG (AP)—A House turned a new corner Tuesday by making the first study of a Scranton Administration request for 600 more troopers.

One area the committee intends to investigate thoroughly, according to its chairman, is the number of troopers who could be freed from routine tasks and placed in the field, by substituting civilians.

"We have to know how many troopers can be relieved of relatively minor jobs and assigned to criminal or traffic work," Chairman Ronald G. Lench, D-Beaver, said after the hearings recessed until April 13.

That question was posed time and time again to Deputy Commissioner Frank McKetta, the first witness in the manpower phase of the probe.

McKetta said that it was possible to substitute civilians—perhaps as many as 200, by his own figures—in such areas as driver examinations, school bus inspections, records identification and answering telephones at substations, among others.

But even then, he maintained, it still would be necessary to supply more troopers.

"The chief gripe to me when I go out into the field is manpower," he told the committee. "'Please get us some manpower,'" they tell me. I have to say where am I going to get it? I don't have it."

In a related development, Lench said representatives of the committee hoped to meet April 6 with Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandroni to discuss procedures involved in obtaining contempt citations against Commissioner E. Wilson Purdy and three other officers, including McKetta.

The committee voted last week to seek the contempt citations in order to test Gov. Scranton's position of executive privilege in the courts.

Scranton banned further testimony by state employes on wiretapping on the ground that the question belonged in the hands of a law enforcement agency rather than a legislative investigating committee.

Alessandroni, meanwhile, said the state was considering two courses of action against the state police detective who dropped the wiretapping bomb into the committee's lap.

He said Det. Angelo Carcaci, who testified he had used illegal listening devices in some of his investigations, could either be court-martialed or information the Justice Department had could be turned over to a county district attorney for prosecution.

He said he expected an announcement might be made either late this week or early next.

Ohio Youth Choir Due Another Trip Abroad

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The All-Ohio State Fair Youth Choir, which made a hit on its initial European tour last summer, is going abroad again July 19-Aug. 9. The group of 130 drawn from throughout Ohio will give concerts in Ireland, England, Wales, Scotland, Switzerland, Spain and Portugal.

Glenville Thomas of Zanesville is director and Vance O'Donnell of Alliance is assistant director of the choir of high school youngsters. The chorus numbers 300 at full complement, such as it will be at the 1966 fair.

Drive Exceeds Goal

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—A donation of $22,000 Tuesday from Hamilton teachers and school employes pushed a fund drive $8,000 over its $600,000 goal for a Hamilton branch of Miami University.

Milk Prices Due Boost In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP) — A statewide milk price increase ranging between a penny and a half-cent a quart was approved tentatively Tuesday by the state Milk Control Commission.

Unless the three-member commission changes its decision based on pre-order testimony taken at a hearing today, the increases wlil go into effect April 5.

In addition to increased wholesale and retail prices, the commission ordered increases in the prices paid to farmers by dealers and processors.

The increase actually will be even higher because the regular seasonal decrease of a penny a quart in most areas will not become effective this year.

Commissioner Joab Mahood explained that increases were necessary because of a "reported shortage of milk and because of increased prices granted to farmers in areas under federal control."

Consumer prices will go up a penny a quart in all but the sprawling Pittsburgh marketing area where the increase will be a half-cent.

Producer prices will go up 40 cents a hundred pounds everywhere but in federal order areas and in the Pittsburgh area where the boost will be 20 cents.

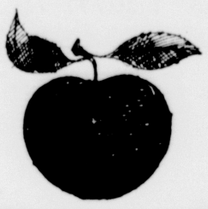

The city of Pittsburgh protested the consumer increases and a number of dealers voiced objections to the producer price raises.

Meigs County School Bond Issue Drive Set

POMEROY, Ohio (AP) — A campaign for passage of a $1 million bond issue in the May primary, assuring construction of a consolidated Meigs County High School, was launched Tuesday night.

Proceeds from the bond issue, with $2 million in state aid if the local share is approved, would erect a 1,000-student school encompassing five former districts —Pomeroy, Middleport, Northwestern (Rutland), Salisbury and Bedford.

As winter's final days grow longer, increasing light stimulates robin's pituitary gland to give off hormones. These activate the reproductive organs that in turn secrete other hormones into the blood stream. Thus are set up a series of urges to be obeyed in regular sequence. One of the first compels the bird to go back north to its breeding ground.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Safety In Numbers

Network thinking follows the line that if one of something is good, then two of the same has got to be better. ABC, as an example, hired singer Jack Jones to head up his own TV special next Tuesday night, but insisted on adding singer Tony Bennett as "special guest star."

Hal Humphrey

Joe Layton, who was hired to produce the show because of his great success in conceiving and staging the Barbara Streisand specials (the second one is on tonight), did not believe Bennett was needed.

-:-

"MY PLAN was to have Milton Berle and three gal singers—Molly Bee, Joanie Sommers and Shani Wallace—that's all. But ABC wanted a lot of stars. The show didn't need Bennett. He doesn't hurt it, you understand," adds Layton, diplomatically.

The young New York producer, who is a ringer for Jerry Lewis in looks, prefers to sink or swim with his own ideas and resists pressure from the second - guessers whenever he can.

There's a story around that CBS program chief Michael Dann saw the tape of the first Streisand show before it went on the air and sent a letter to Layton stating that he (Dann) was washing his hands of the whole project. After the show was aired, raved over and became the talk of TV, Layton received another letter from Dann calling him (Layton) "a giant among dwarfs."

-:-

LAYTON HIMSELF says it wasn't quite like that.

"The first letter came before we taped the show, and Dann was worried because too many people had become involved on the production side," says Layton, who still will be a giant in Dann's pygmy world, provided the rating on his second Streisand show holds up.

All network program vice presidents suffer a lack of confidence in their judgements, chiefly because so much money is always at stake, and, as Fred Allen or some other wit once remarked, "There is nothing so afraid as a million dollars."

The impermanence of those lofty network jobs gives the men who hold them the shakes, too. Edgar Sherick, the program v.p. at the time Layton taped the Jack Jones special last December, is gone. Layton is lucky that the shift wasn't made during production of his show or the new man might have added a rock 'n roll group or Eddie Fisher to the roster with Jones.

TOO MANY uncreative people and too much "family" keep TV's variety shows in the rut they've been in so long, thinks Layton. By "family" he means that the same groups of people rotate round the networks doing these shows, and they are as allergic to risking a new idea as the network program heads.

"I look at the person who's to star in the show and try to see what it is he or she needs, then use my imagination to provide whatever it is," says Layton. "I also like to tell a story, not with a lot of dialogue, but visually. After all, TV is a visual medium, isn't it?"

Layton, who began his career as a dancer-choreographer, has the radical idea that it is extraneous to have people introducing people on TV, especially when the title boards tell you it's Jack Jones, Milton Berle, etc.

-:-

"I ASSUME the public knows who Berle is, and I don't like those audience tracks with the laughing and applause. Carol Channing's recent special was nearly spoiled by all that laughing. Where would it possibly come from when we see she is outside and walking along the street?" Layton wants to know.

The Carol Burnett special last week was nearly ruined by either an overzealous engineer-riding the audience volume knob or the inclusion of some supplemental laughs. The show was taped in front of an audience, but the noise level was much too dominating in lots of spots.

In fairness to the TV programming hierarchy it must be pointed out that Layton is in much demand now for specials, even though they still want to kibitz him with an extra singer or other backstops for supposed insured success. Meanwhile, Layton is playing aloof by directing a Julie Andrews-Carol Channing musical movie at Universal and says he wouldn't want to do more than one TV special a year.

Indonesia's New Cabinet Takes Oath

JAKARTA, Indoneia (AP) — President Sukarno swore in Indonesia's new Cabinet today, and Lt. Gen. Suharto said he thinks critics will give it a chance.

Sukarno in a speech at the swearing-in ceremony also took note of the opposition from students and political groups. He said all people cannot be pleased all the time.

"According to my belief, I have succeeded in making it (the Cabinet) perfect again," Sukarno said, but indicated changes might be made in the future.

"If later we have to make it perfect again, we will change it again in accordance with my conscience," he said.

Sukarno said advice on the Cabinet appointments came from others but he retained full authority in making them.

"I stress these things so persons abroad will know I am not a mere figurehead president," he said.

Suharto, Indonesia's new strongman, told newsmen that although there was dissatisfaction with the new Cabinet, he believed the complainers would give it a chance to try to resolve the country's grave economic problems.

Students and political groups have called for a simplified Cabinet. They have also complained that there are too many old faces left in the government.

Violent student demonstrations toppled the previous Cabinet on Feb. 24, and Sukarno handed over most of his power to Suharto. The students objected to Communists and pro-Communists in the government in the wake of the Communist-backed coup attempt last October.

To Air Racial Problems

Cleveland Rights Hearing To Draw Wide Attention

CLEVELAND (AP)—National attention will focus on Cleveland's racial problems Friday when the U. S. Civil Rights Commission opens hearings here—the first such hearings in a northern city in two years.

Commission investigators have been here since last fall gathering information and contacting people to give testimony.

What will the commission find? Is Cleveland a typical northern city, as one commission staff member has described it.

Negroes form about one-third of Cleveland's 810,858 population.

Negroes have a voting majority in 12 of the city's 33 wards, and last November Carl B. Stokes, a Negro state representative, came within a whisker of upsetting Mayor Ralph S. Locher for the top city post.

Clarence L. Gaines, a Negro recently appointed welfare director in Mayor Locher's cabinet, agrees that racial problems are similar to those in other cities, although there are differences.

The Rev. Donald L. Jacobs, president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, concurs.

"There are the same basic problems," said the Rev. Mr. Jacobs. "There is a disproportionate number of Negroes unemployed as contrasted to whites. Housing available to Negroes is not only ghettoized but of the poorest quality. . . .

"There is a serious problem in trying to get quality education. . . .

"There is a growing concern over the lack of improvement in police-citizen relationships. Unfortunately, many Negroes still consider the police to be oppressors rather than protectors."

Police officials have consistently denied allegations of "police brutality" from civil rights leaders, and Chief Richard Wagner will be one of the first given an opportunity to speak to the commission. He will appear at a closed session Friday, along with some others the commission feels may be targets of criticism in subsequent open hearings.

Gaines says one major difference in Cleveland is in the matter of involvement.

"In poverty areas in other major cities, the people are uninvolved. They have no feeling that they can control their future.

"In Hough, you don't have that feeling of helplessness. There has always been a great deal of leadership. Often that leadership has been so vocal, with so many projects and programs, no one seems to know who's doing what anymore."

The Hough area mentioned by Gaines is one section that is expected to get special attention from the commission. It is a 2.2-square-mile area and 15 years ago it was predominantly white. Then there was a swift exodus of whites, and most of the 88,000 residents now are Negroes.

Gaines thinks the area has received a bad name, unjustly, because of pockets of poverty and lawlessness. Many Negroes living there came recently from the South. Hough leaders say a major problem is posed by a high number of "fatherless families." In many cases where mothers alone are rearing large families, one minister observed, the men "would only be a burden if they stayed around. They can't get jobs, so they get out."

Makes No Attempt To Hush Talk

Air Force Says It Has Open Mind About 'UFO'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force said today it has an open mind about unidentified flying objects — UFO's — and makes no attempt to hush talk about flying saucers.

A spokesman, asked about allegations that the Air Force tries to squelch UFO reports, said:

"In the first place, we'd be utterly foolish to try to keep people from telling about something they've seen with their own eyes. Our job is to explain what is seen — not necessarily to change anybody's mind."

Retired Marine Maj. Donald E. Keyhoe, head of a group called National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena, told newsmen this week the Pentagon has a top-level policy of discounting all UFO reports. He said the Air Force over the years has used ridicule to discredit sightings.

Keyhoe made the assertion while endorsing a suggestion by House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford that a congressional inquiry into the flying saucer matter might be a good idea.

The Air Force has a special public relations office which answers thousands of letters a year from inquisitive persons — among them, school children, corporate officials, housewives, flying saucer club members and foreigners.

Last year it turned out 3,717 replies to letters about UFO's. The count for January and February already has run over 800 requests for information or explanations, and scores are being received in the wake of recent Michigan sightings.

Some replies by the Air Force are practically a form letter which says that the Air Force has no pictures of flying saucers, that it does not censor or keep secret reports about UFO's and that Congress has not yet seen fit to conduct an investigation in the matter.

Other replies give specific explanations to people who report seeing strange lights or mysterious objects.

Virtually all are accompanied by an annual report of Project Blue Book.

This project, started in 1947, has produced explanations for 9,501 of a total of 10,147 sightings reported through 1965.

Project Blue Book has been unable to explain the 646 other UFO incidents and of these merely says: "The description of the object or its motion cannot be correlated with any known object or phenomena."

Based on the bulk of its findings, the Air Force has decided that most people do not see interplanetary space ships but bright stars, balloons, satellites, comets, fireballs, aircraft, moving clouds, vapor trails, missiles, reflections, mirages, searchlights, birds, kites, spurious radar indications, fireworks or flares.

In the case of the Michigan incidents, marsh gas was pinpointed as the source of colored lights observed by a number of people.

The answers the Air Force has been able to turn up have led it to these conclusions:

1. No UFO has ever given any indication of threat to the national security.

2. There is no evidence that UFO's represent technological developments or principles beyond present day scientific knowledge.

3. There is no evidence that any UFO's are "extra-terrestrial vehicles."

Send any clues, the Air Force says, to:

Legion Supports Cregar For Post At June Session

American Legion Post 374 of East End has endorsed James Cregar, a past commander, for election as 10th District first vice commander during a district convention at Wellsville in June.

The action was taken at a meeting of the post Monday night at which John Long, commander, presided. Densil McKinney, chaplain, offered prayers. James Wallover reported on a service officers' meeting at Scio Sunday.

Leroy Patterson announced the state convention of the Sons of the Legion will be held April 23-24 at Fremont. Plans are being made for a delegation from Squadron 374 to attend.

Patterson also reported on a Sons of the Legion project to collect used cigarette lighters to be sent to veterans in Columbus for repair and then distributed to patients in Veterans Administration hospitals. He urged anyone with an old lighter, no matter how badly worn or broken, to leave it at the post home. Parts for lighters also will be accepted, he said.

$150,000 Fire Damage Set In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh's exclusive Duquesne Club was extensively damaged by a general alarm fire of undetermined origin Tuesday night. Loss estimates ranged as high as $150,000.

There was no immediate attempt to evacuate any of the 43 guests quartered in the club. As the fire worsened, however, Police Superintendant James W. Slusser ordered everyone out.

Before the evacuation order, several guests remained in a smoke-filled bar on the first floor watching firemen drag hoses through the building as water seeped through the ceiling and cascaded down stairways.

One of the guests remarked to a newsman, "There's no sense getting panicky about it."

Firemen carrying air packs battled to find the source of the fire, which started in a conveyer belt system in a second floor kitchen. It spread through the walls and false ceilings of the five—story, 85-year-old stone building, firemen said.

Slusser said the thick smoke was "the worst I've ever seen." Several firemen were sickened by it.

At the height of the blaze a dozen firemen escaped injury when a portion of the ceiling in the main dining room caved in with a roar.

Police Inspector John Kelly found five cleaning women on a upper floor and led them to safety down a rear elevator.

The luxuriously furnished club in downtown Pittsburgh has long been a meeting place of businessmen and industrialists.

Gurdon F. Flagg, secretary-treasurer of the club, estimated the damages were $500,000. He said $300,000 worth of fine art escaped damage.

Acting Fire Chief William F. Martin, however, placed the loss at $150,000.

The fire took three hours to bring under control. The blaze was reported after guests smelled smoke.

Six alarms were sounded in rapid succession.

Battalion Chief Joseph Mullen said he and several firemen were on the third floor when the smoke "got to them" and had to be pulled out and given oxygen. They returned to duty.

NAACP Slates Rally At Midland

The Midland Branch of the NAACP will hold a spring membership rally and program Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at the First Baptist Church with Dr. Charles Fuget, professor and chairman of the Department of Physics at Geneva College, as guest speaker.

Junior Editors Quiz on EARTH

QUESTION: Why isn't the earth named after an ancient god or goddess like the other planets?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: The ancient Greeks noticed points of light which seemed to wander among the fixed stars and they called these planets, which meant wanderers. They gave each one the name of one of their mythical gods and goddesses. In those days, it was not realized that the earth also was a planet. Nevertheless, the Greeks did give the name of a goddess to the solid ground. They called it Gaea, the earth goddess. When the Romans took over Greek mythology, they called this goddess Terra, which was their word for earth. In the Greek creation story, first there was an empty void named Choas (upper left). Out of this, Gaea was created, and she brought the solid earth into being. This goddess was not as definite as the other ones, and so our artist has drawn her vaguely. In the Latin form, as Terra, she becomes more familiar, for we often speak of Terra Firma, solid ground. The god in the back of our picture is Uranus, or Heaven, also created out of Chaos. He is sending down rain on the earth. Our word "earth" comes from other sources; especially from the German "erde" which became the Anglo-Saxon "eorthe," leading to the English word we use.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: It is most interesting to see how many familiar words have come from old legends and myths. Open a dictionary and look for words beginning with "terra" to see how they are connected with the idea of solid ground or the earth. An example is "terrain."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, March 30, the 89th day of 1966. There are 276 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1867, Secretary of State William Seward signed a treaty with a Russian representative in Washington providing for the sale by Russia of the Alaskan Territory. The United States was to pay $7.2 million in gold for the vast area.

On this date

In 1822, territorial government was established in Florida.

In 1893, Thomas Bayard was made the first U.S. ambassador to Great Britain — until then the post carried the title of minister.

In 1933, radio-telephone service was opened between the United States and the Philippines.

In 1942, President Franklin D. Roosevelt announced the setting up of a Pacific War Council.

Ten years ago — A survey showed at least 166 deaths in two great snowstorms since March 19 from Maine to West Virginia.

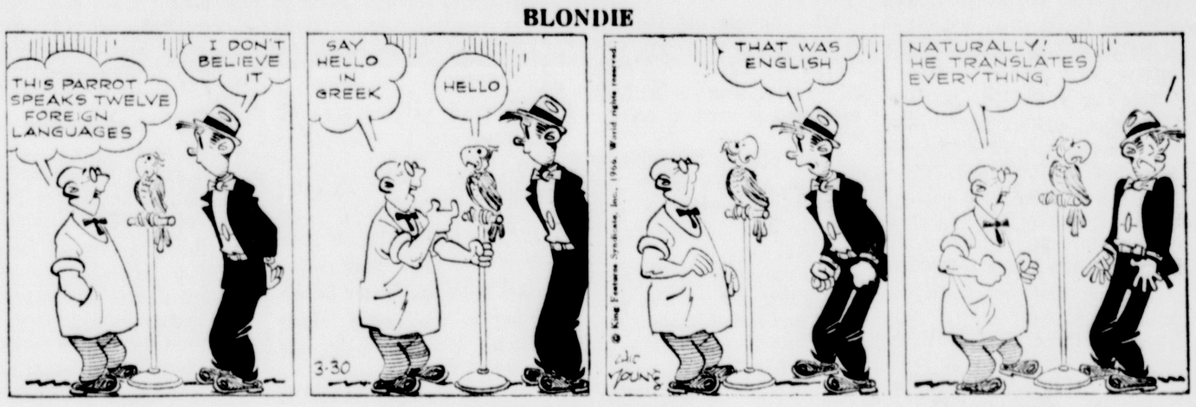

Five years ago — President John F. Kennedy announced the selection of a National Advisory Council for the Peace Corps with Vice President Lyndon Johnson as its chairman.

One year ago—Alabama Gov. George Wallace received an equal rights delegation in Montgomery, Ala., after twice refusing to see them.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: After making one of your famous nylon net hats, I had a few scraps of net left over. Since it was only four inches wide, I didn't know what to use it for.

Then I decided to wrap the strip of net lengthwise around a bar of facial soap, and fasten it on each side with two tiny safety pins.

This makes the best combination bather and scrubber I have ever seen. It's wonderful for scrubbing tired legs and feet.

As the soap wears down and becomes smaller, the net, of course, stays the same size and becomes even more wonderful.

Not only that, but when you return the soap to the soap tray, the three or four thicknesses of net keeps it from sticking to the inside of the tray and getting mushy, thus keeping the tray clean, and saving on soap.

FLORENCE HERTELL.

-:-

DEAR FOLKS: Have you ever tried adding a little ready-mix pancake batter to salmon or tuna croquettes?

I have!

Wonderful. Real fluffy. . .

HELOISE.

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE: Does your husband put you on a grocery budget, and expect it to go twice as far as it should!

Here's how I won the "battle of the budget":

I circled all items on the register tape that were not actually groceries, then made a list (with prices) of those items (shaving cream, toothpaste, cigagrettes, shoe laces, furniture polish, aspirin, baby oil, toilet tissue, etc., etc.).

When I showed this list to my husband, I got a raise in my budget allowance!

Try it! It works.

HOUSEWIFE.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: After you learn to contour your regular sheets, you'll find that you can also make two such baby crib sheets from one old double bed sheet by turning it sideways. Wonderful.

MRS. SULLIVAN.

DEAR HELOISE: Noise in the cold water faucet may result from washers that are too hard a composition of rubber.

Try using softer washers to eliminate the noise.

LEWIS R. CROOKS.

DEAR FOLKS: I tested three water faucets that were quite noisy when the water was first turned on.

After turning off the water at the cut-off valve, I removed the faucet and found all three washers to be badly worn and in need of replacement.

Until new ones could be obtained, we just turned (reversed) the washers over and replaced the faucet. Result: No noise.

This works in an emergency—getting rid of the noise temporarily—but it won't last, and you will soon have to get new washers.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: To keep my active, 4-year-old entertained (and quiet), I filled an old jewelry box with small items, such as his tiny soldiers, jack toys, car wheels, etc.

He loves to arrange the things in the box, and many times finds things he has forgotten about.

Once in a while, I sneak in something new to whet his interest.

MANCI.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: If you will always rinse your coffee basket with cold water before putting in the coffee, small particles of coffee won't sift through!

MYRTLE BAYLOR.

1 Killed, 1 Injured In Pennsylvania Mine

VANDERGRIFT, Pa. (AP) — A mine accident in Kiskiminetas Twp. near this Westmoreland County town Tuesday killed one man and injured another.

Mine foreman Michael G. Lingenfelter, 38, of Apollo, father of two, was crushed to death in a rock fall at the Kanterbury Coal Co. pit. Alex Reddock of Indiana, Pa., was admitted to Indiana Hospital.

The men were working about 4,200 feet from the mine opening when a mass of rock fell on them.

Accidental Shooting Fatal To Ohio Woman

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A young Dayton woman died in Miami Valley Hospital today from a gunshot wound in the head which police said was accidentally inflicted by her father.

Police said Jesse Friesell told them he was examining an old side-loading 38 caliber revolver when it discharged Tuesday night, and the bullet struck his daughter Ruth Ann, 22.

150 Given Furloughs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A sitdown on the job Tuesday, management said, resulted in one to three day disciplinary furloughs for 150 first-shift workers at Westinghouse Electric Corp.'s trouble-plagued Columbus appliance plant.

Mrs. Rhodes Okay

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—University Hospital reported Gov. James A. Rhodes' wife, Helen, 50, in good condition today following her admission Tuesday, said to be primarily for tests. A spokesman said bronchitis aggravated a cardiac condition she suffers.

Living Costs Rose Sharply In February

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher food prices boosted living costs five-tenths of 1 per cent last month, the sharpest February rise in 15 years, the Labor Department reported.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said fresh vegetables prices rose 10.5 per cent to a record February level, meat prices rose nearly 2 per cent, eggs 4 per cent and poultry 8 per cent, making up three-quarters of the big jump in the consumer price index.

The rise brought prices to 2.5 per cent above a year ago, the biggest annual jump since 1958, said Asst. Commissioner Arnold Chase of the BLS.

The increase brought the consumer price index to 111.7, meaning it cost $11.16 to purchase items in February that cost $10 in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

Chase insisted the increases showed on sign of "inflationary psychology" among American consumers.

"There is no indication of panic buying" as there would be if such psychology prevailed, Chase said.

Speaking of the steep rise in food prices, Chase said, "The worst of the increases appears to be over."

Advance reports had indicated a February rise of at least three-tenths of 1 per cent.

That thinking stemmed in large part from the sharp increase of seven-tenths of 1 per cent in February wholesale prices, reported earlier this month. The wholesale increase was the biggest since the Korean War.

The consumer price index includes some items not covered in the wholesale price report. Notable it that list are the cost of housing, transportation, medical care and recreation.

Food is a major element in the cost of living figures, and price rises in that area work into retail prices faster than some of the others.

The consumer price index held steady in January for the first time in a year. There had been a big increase—four-tenths of 1 per cent—in December.

1-Mill Levy Okayed, Fairborn Dimout Ends

FAIRBORN, Ohio (AP) — They're singing "When the Lights Go On Again" here, for the city's streetlights are being turned on after disuse since November.

Voters at a special election Tuesday overwhelmingly approved a one-mill levy to pay for street lighting, 3,573 - 1,182, ending the dimout imposed when the levy lost in the fall.
